Armed Highway Patrol Guards
To Prevent More Mob Attacks

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Heavily armed highway patrolmen were in Grenada, Miss., today to prevent further mob attacks on Negro children attending the city's two previously all-white schools.

The patrol took over Monday after most of the city and county officers on the scene merely watched as a crowd of angry whites, swinging axe handles, chains and tree branches, attacked Negro children leaving the schools.

A racially tense area in Atlanta, Ga., had its third straight night of rock and firebomb throwing and an incident in Bogalusa, La., threatened to lead to open battling.

Sword for Sword
The highway patrol went into Grenada after Gov. Paul Johnson declared that "those who raise the sword of violence will be met by the sword of law enforcement."

The state troopers dispersed a hostile crowd early today which attempted to march toward a church where some 250 Negroes were meeting. The Negroes also threatened a march toward City Square where the whites were gathered, but were dissuaded by an aide to the governor.

During the attacks on the children, 12-year-old Richard Sigh had to hobble nearly a block through the gantlet of whites on a broken leg. He was hospitalized along with three 16-year-olds also beaten by the mob.

Rights Leaders
Two photographers and a newsman also were beaten by the whites.

The outbreak in Atlanta came despite the urgings of civil rights leaders to end violence and allow city authorities to seek redress of grievances.

The violence Monday night did not last as long as on Saturday and Sunday nights. A cold, drizzly rain aided police in keeping the eight-block area cleared. Two fires were ignited by firebombs, but were quickly brought under control by firemen.

In Bogalusa, a white man, identified by police as Paul Farmer, an insurance salesman, pointed a shotgun at a Negro

Gordon, 'Hot and Sweaty,' Cuts Short Walk in Space

Astronaut Remains Outside
Gemini 11 Spacecraft for 44 Minutes Instead of 115

By HOWARD BENEDICT

AP Aerospace Writer

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP)

Astronaut Richard F. Gordon Jr. cut short a space walk today and hurried back to the safety of the Gemini 11 cabin when "he got so hot and sweaty he couldn't see."

Gordon, husky, 36-year-old Navy lieutenant commander, remained outside only 44 minutes of the planned 115-minute excursion.

It was the third straight time that an American astronaut cut short a space stroll because of troubles.

Command pilot Charles Conrad Jr. flashed the word to a tracking station in the Indian Ocean that Gordon was back inside the spacecraft and that the cabin was repressurized.

Tether Trouble

Gordon had trouble organizing his 30-foot tether after opening the hatch and it apparently put a heavy work load on him.

Conrad had to hold onto the space-walker's legs to prevent him from floating out before he was ready.

"I'm breathing hard. I'm pooped," Gordon reported.

Once outside, Gordon moved over to an Agena satellite attached to the nose of Gemini 11. The astronauts had caught and docked with the Agena in record time after their launching Monday from Cape Kennedy.

Vital Task
Gordon rested for several minutes as he sat astride the 26-foot target rocket.

Before calling off the stroll, he accomplished a task vital to a high-flying experiment planned Wednesday.

He unstowed one end of a 100-foot cord stored under the Agena docking collar. He attached the loose end to a ruler-like docking bar on the Gemini nose. The bulk of the line remained coiled in a stowage area on the Agena, the other end attached to the target satellite.

Conrad and Gordon plan Wednesday to disconnect from the Agena and pull the 100-foot line taut between the two vehicles to see if this is an effective, fuel-saving means of flying formation in space.

Fog, Freeze

The short walk was reminiscent of the Gemini 9 flight during which astronaut Eugene A. Cernan overworked and had his helmet visor fog up, then freeze. Gordon opened the hatch of the speeding Gemini 11 spacecraft as it zipped 185 miles above Southern California at 9:44 a.m.

After some trouble getting out, he moved to an Agena satellite, attached to the Gemini nose and sat astride it like a cowboy on a horse.

After resting a few minutes, Gordon recovered a radiation-measuring package from the side of the spacecraft and handed it into the cabin to the command pilot.

He mounted a movie camera on the side of the craft to record his movements and then official New China News Agency indicated today Premier Chou En-lai has been removed from his post as vice chairman of the Chinese Communist party. However, he apparently retained the premiership.

Chou En-lai May be Out Of Party Post

TOKYO (AP) — Peking's

Chou's removal was indicated by the news agency when it failed to mention the post as one of his responsibilities.

Chou was included, however, on the Politburo's powerful standing committee in the latest list of government leaders.

Confer on Possible Charges In Appleton Woman's Death

Outagamie County Dist. Atty.

Nick F. Schaefer was still meeting at 11:30 a.m. today with two Appleton Police Department detectives in regard to possible charges stemming from the shooting death Sunday night of Mrs. Delores Kubitz.

Det. Richard Jirschele began meeting with Schaefer shortly after 9 a.m. and was joined about 10:45 a.m. by Det. Sgt. Carl Thiel, one of the first investigators at the scene of the shooting.

Mrs. Kubitz, 32, divorcee and the mother of two young children, was shot to death from the lone blast of a shotgun as she worked in a small garden behind her home at 1419 E. Amelia St., about 6:50 p.m. Sunday.

Struck in the back with pellets from a 12 gauge shotgun, Mrs. Kubitz died an hour later at Appleton Memorial Hospital.

Edward Kubitz was reported in good condition today at the same hospital. He was being treated for a shotgun wound in the left foot. He was taken to the hospital in the ambulance with the dying woman.

Authorities did not know today when Kubitz would be released from the hospital. He remains under police guard 24 hours a day. Police have attempted to question the man, who, it was learned, has retained an attorney.

Conference Monday

An hour-long conference was held at the police department Monday night. Attending were two representatives of the Wisconsin State Crime Laboratory who spent part of the morning and most of the afternoon at the scene of the shooting; Outagamie County Coroner Bernard H. Kemps; Deputy Coroner C. J. Schink; Dist. Atty. Nick F. Schaefer and members of the Appleton Police Department who are conducting the investigation.

The crime laboratory agents returned to Madison Monday evening.

Police believe the shot that killed Mrs. Kubitz was fired from a small second level window at the rear of his garage. The back yards of the two Kubitz homes adjoin. The woman was struck by more than 50 shotgun pellets from a distance of about 80 feet, police believe.

Questioned Woman

Authorities were able to question the woman briefly before she was taken from her yard to the hospital, right after the shooting. Although she could barely talk, she replied, on a question by detectives, that she

Johnson Vetoes Fringe Hike for U.S. Employees

Bill Inflationary, Inconsistent With Restraint, LBJ Says

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson has vetoed a $90 million increase in government employee insurance benefits, declaring it is inflationary and inconsistent with his call for restraint in federal spending.

Johnson acted Monday night after the House Ways and Means Committee completed its first day of hearings on a key portion of the President's anti-inflation package: suspension of the 7 per cent investment tax credit and the tax-advantaged accelerated depreciation allowance.

The veto came as Republican committee members prepared to challenge administration budget-cutting claims.

Budget Director

Led by Rep. Thomas B. Curtis, R-Mo., the GOP members planned to question Budget Director Charles L. Schultz when hearings resumed today.

Schultz said Monday the administration already is enforcing a "first slice" budget cut of about $1.5 billion.

Schultz, Secretary of the Treasury Henry H. Fowler and Secretary of Commerce John T. Connor presented the President's proposals to the committee in the opening hearing.

Johnson announced his veto of the insurance bill at a hastily called news conference in his office, saying "at a time when we are making every effort to reduce low-priority federal spending in other areas, this bill cannot be justified."

Common Goal

"Many members of Congress share my belief that our anti-inflationary efforts must include restraint on spending," he added. "The measure I have vetoed today is totally inconsistent with our common goal."

Johnson said if similar bene-

Australians Demand Talks On Viet Nam

Halt Discussions
At Commonwealth
Nations Meeting

LONDON (AP) — An Australian demand for a discussion of the Viet Nam war and other world issues forced the 22-nation Commonwealth Conference today to interrupt talks on Rhodesia.

The move by Prime Minister Harold Holt angered Foreign Minister Simon Kapwepwe of Zambia, who stalked out of the conference room and told newsmen outside, "I am disgusted."

The bearded Zambian said he intended to telephone President Kenneth Kaunda about the development.

Urgent Issue
Delegates reported Holt arose during a secret session on Rhodesia to protest that after eight days the conference still had not come around to examining major world problems of the gravest importance to some member countries.

The outspoken Australian, whose country has troops fighting the Communists in Viet Nam, cited the crisis in South-east Asia as one of the big issues which required urgent attention.

Prime Ministers Keith Holyoake of New Zealand and Lee Kuan Yew of Singapore supported Holt's intervention.

The upshot was that the conference moved to world affairs.

Joint Declaration
The ministers ordered senior officials to begin work on terms of a joint declaration setting forth their objectives in Rhodesia and methods by which they hope to bring down the rebel white-settlers minority regime of Prime Minister Ian Smith.

Wilson was reported considering sending a senior government minister to Rhodesia in a final bid to persuade Smith to end his 10-month rebellion.

Shelton Contempt Trial to Resume

WASHINGTON (AP) — A jury including three Negroes has been empaneled for the trial of Ku Klux Klan leader Robert M. Shelton on contempt of Congress charges.

His trial in U.S. District Court was to resume at 10 a.m. today. At the opening session Monday, Shelton was briefly under threat of arrest for showing up late.

Shelton, 37, imperial wizard of the United Klans of America, faces contempt charges brought on by his refusal to produce Klan records subpoenaed by the House Committee on Un-American Activities.

Succeeds Verwoerd

Vorster S. Africa's Prime Minister

CAPE TOWN, South Africa

(AP) — Justice Minister Balthazar Vorster was chosen today to become South Africa's seventh prime minister. He as indication of their resolve to choose a strongman leader, resolute in pursuing its apartheid (race segregation) policies without deviating from Verwoerd's race line.

Schoeman told the meeting that after serious consideration he had decided not to accept nomination as party leader.

As the only other candidate, Vorster was unanimously elected, thus preserving a facade of party unity and strength.

Vorster will now be called on by state President Charles Swart to form a government, which is expected to make its first appearance before Parliament Wednesday.

Lucky Number

Vorster, 50, now regards the 13th as his lucky number. He was elected to the premiership on the 13th of September. He was born December 13, 1915. He is the 13th child in his family. This is his 13th year in Parliament and as justice minister he was 13th in the Cabinet seniority.

He holds the portfolios of justice, police and prisons, and as the nation's top policeman has sharply curtailed activities of about 500 left-wing and liberal critics under the suppression of communism laws.

Vorster was interned for nearly two years during World War II for pro-German sympathies and is often pictured in newspaper cartoons wearing Nazi-style jackboots.

Oneida Voting Booths 'Lost,' New Ones Built

Oneida Town Clerk Richard Peterson, his wife, and several volunteers had a big job ahead of them before voting could start today.

They had to build the voting booths.

Peterson went to the Oneida Town Hall Monday afternoon to get the four portable metal booths in shape for the primary balloting today. He couldn't find them.

The clerk and his wife, after searching the town hall area for some time, got into their car and began "scouring" the countryside. The search was to no avail. They gave up about 1 a.m. today.

Arose Early
They arose early this morning, rounded up a few men, and went to the town hall to build two makeshift booths.

They used some old posts and scrap veneer wood.

Mrs. Peterson, contacted by telephone shortly before 11 a.m., said that she had just returned home from the town hall and added, "the polls are finally open." She indicated there should be no problem for voters, even though there are two fewer booths, than normal.

The four metal booths were last accounted for, Peterson told Outagamie County authorities, when members of the Oneida Indian tribe borrowed them for voting purposes July 23.

Tribal officials say they returned the booths to the Town Hall July 25.

Mrs. Peterson said they have a couple possible leads on the disappearance of the booths, but they wanted to do more checking.

New York Mayor John V. Lindsay, left, gets a proof sheet of page one of the city's new newspaper, the World Journal Tribune, which made its appearance Monday. The paper was formed by consolidation of the World-Telegram, Herald Tribune and Journal-American. Others are, from left, Frank Conniff, editor; Matt Meyer, corporation president; and David Cole, arbitrator in the lengthy series of labor disputes which prevented publication for 4½ months.

LBJ's Great Society Not Likely to Keep Pace

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP) — This year Congress had a creepy feeling, and it's still creeping. It was, different last year. That was the up-and-at-em year.

The Democrats, fresh from their election triumphs in November, 1964, ran the show in 1965 with their overwhelming majorities in both House and Senate. President Johnson called Congress' performance last year fabulous.

What it did was bound to change the social, economic and political life of the nation. It turned out legislation in a torrent, passing 86 major administration bills, including medicare, voting rights, aid to education.

Stunning Start
Johnson's Great Society programs were off to a stunning start. Last year's was probably the most productive single session of Congress in history.

After such a deluge it was natural that Johnson this year wouldn't drown Congress in quite as big a flood of proposals as in 1965. And he hasn't.

But it would also seem natural that such a peppy Congress would still work with a rush, particularly since this is another election year with all 435 House seats and 35 Senate seats at stake. But it hasn't.

It has dawdled all year, so much so that there's a good chance now it will have to quit temporarily in mid-October, so members can go home and pick for the November elections, and then come back for a lame-duck session.

(That session, since it would still be the present Congress, would include men defeated in November but none of the newly elected who can't take their seats until next year.)

But a lot of the members — starting perhaps last June — weren't waiting for mid-October to go home and try to round up votes. It's happening right now.

Monday in the House on a roll-call vote only 250 of the 435 members showed up. This concern about getting re-elected, and the work it involves, explains in part the slow pace of the present Congress. But not all of it.

Johnson has lost much of his magic control over Congress, the kind he had in 1965 after his huge victory over Sen. Barry Goldwater in 1964 had carried a lot of Democrats to victory with him.

At a time when Johnson's own popularity with the public is slipping, according to the polls, it has slipped in Congress, too, at least to the extent that the members are no longer so eager to say "yes, sir," when Johnson speaks.

One veteran observer of the House remarked: "A lot of these guys this year are not so anxious to have their vote, yes or no, on a piece of legislation because that only means that much more explaining to the folks back home."

At the same time Johnson's leadership hasn't been so concentrated as it was in 1965. He has to spend a lot more time with the war in Viet Nam. And he dawdled about doing something to head off inflation.

Mentally Denuded
Last year the badly outnumbered Republicans, shattered and bewildered by their disaster in the 1964 elections and practically tongue-tied as a result of it, were so limp and mentally denuded that they actually quizzed outsiders for ideas to use against Johnson.

This year they gathered themselves together and are sniping, if not sharpshooting, at him. That by itself spoils some of the smooth sailing Johnson had in 1965. Some major bills and appropriations measures still are awaiting action. One of Johnson's pet projects, the civil rights bill, seems all but dead.

When this session finally ends, Johnson may praise it but he will never be able to call it fabulous.

DePere Man Fined $50
For Being Intoxicated

KAUKAUNA — John Davis, 23, route 1, West DePere, was fined $50 after pleading guilty of public intoxication when arraigned before Clarence O'Connor, municipal justice, Monday.

Cautious President 'Glad' of Turnout In Viet Nam Ballot

Reactions of Other Officials Split Between Doubt, Praise

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson is taking a cautiously optimistic middle ground between the enthusiastic reaction of some senators to the South Viet Nam elections and the doubts of a leading Senate critic of administration foreign policy.

"We are glad the elections were held and we are glad the people participated," the President told a news conference Monday night.

"We think it is a good sign. We hope that they will go on and take additional steps."

But Johnson refused to be drawn into further discussion of the balloting which picked a constituent assembly to draft a constitution for the war-torn country.

Don't Want to be Misquoted' He cut off one questioner by saying "those correspondents out there (in Viet Nam) can give you all the information. I don't want to be misunderstood or misquoted."

His remarks were more guarded than those of Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel, R-Calif., who declared in a Senate speech that the Viet Cong "may well have suffered their Dien Bien Phu at the polls."

The battle of Dien Bien Phu led to the ouster of the French from Viet Nam in 1954.

Kuchel, the assistant Republican leader, called the election "an extraordinary demonstration by a poor and humble people of their courageous devotion to self-government."

Hailed by Dirksen Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois said the 80 per cent voter turnout was a tonic to "those who believe our faith in the Vietnamese and their desire for self-determination has been fully vindicated."

Sen. Ernest Gruening, D-Alaska, a critic of Johnson's Viet Nam policies, said, "I don't have any great faith in those elections considering that Mr. Ky (the premier) said only neutralists and non-communists could vote."

"That's pretty much like holding an election in the South and saying only Democrats could vote," he told a newsman. "It's difficult to judge an election in a country where they've never had an honest election."

"Might be Good" Gruening said, however, the results "might be very good if the government is responsive to the desires of the people."

Another administration critic, Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, said establishment of a civilian government "would improve such prospects as there may be for a settlement" of the war through negotiations.

Twenty military men and 97 civilians were elected to the assembly.

Church's view on negotiations, however, was not shared by Vu Van Thai, South Viet Nam's ambassador to the United States.

Thai told a Washington news conference the turnout would stiffen government opposition to any negotiations which would allow the Viet Cong to participate.

"The minority imposes its rule by guns," said Thai. "Why should we give more weight to the voice of guns than to the voice of the people?"

Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey said in Salt Lake City the elections are a psychological boost for the United States and an example of "the strong resolve of the Vietnamese people."

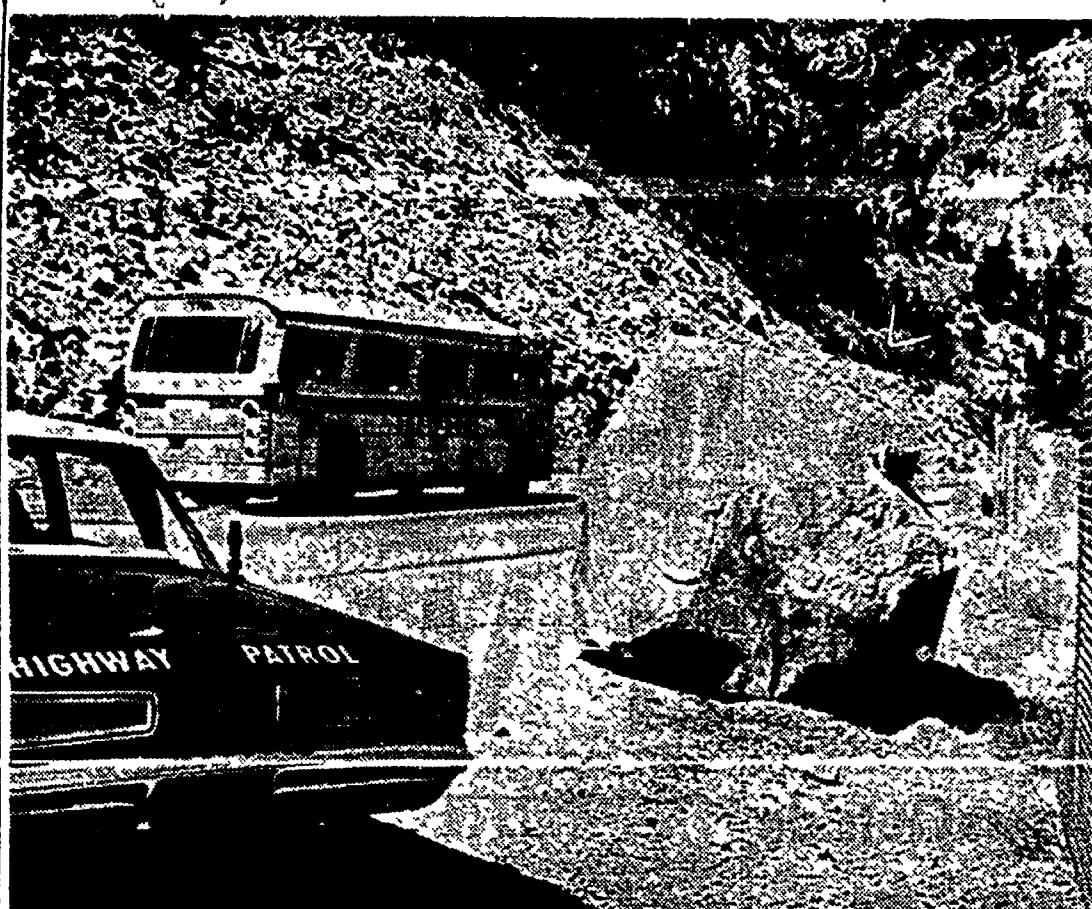

He added, "the election yesterday represented a resounding defeat for the Communists who had dedicated themselves to keeping the election turnout low."

New York Youth Indicted for Threat On President's Life

WASHINGTON (AP) — Robert Watts, 18, a New York high school pupil, was indicted by a federal grand jury Monday on charges of threatening President Johnson's life.

The indictment charges he told a W. E. B. DuBois Club rally, "If they ever made me carry a rifle, the first man I want to get in the sights of the barrel is LBJ."

The youth was arrested by park police Aug. 27 after he had addressed a group of 30 or 40 persons on the Washington Monument grounds.

A Boulder Estimated to be 10 feet high plunged through a restraining fence and came to rest just off Interstate 80 during Monday's earthquake in eastern California and western Nevada. Damage was recorded as minor during the tremors and no injuries were reported. This scene was about 20 miles west of Reno, just inside California. (AP Wire-photo)

Minnesota Governor Seeks Endorsement in Primary Vote

Rolvaag Failed To Get Backing Of Own Party

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gov. Karl Rolvaag of Minnesota, denied endorsement for renomination by the state Democratic-Farmer-Labor convention, tries for a primary election vindication from the voters today.

In Massachusetts, Democrats settle a pair of hot contests over nominations for governor and senator.

Eleven states are holding primaries in the year's busiest day for ballot boxes except for Nov. 8 when all 435 members of the House, 35 senators and 35 governors will be elected.

Other states conducting primaries are Arizona, Colorado, Maryland, New Hampshire, New Jersey, Rhode Island, Utah, Vermont and Wisconsin.

Rolvaag's primary opponent, endorsed by the convention, is Lt. Gov. A. M. (Sandy) Keith, 37.

Won by 91 Votes Keith's backers argued in the convention that Rolvaag, 53, couldn't be re-elected. He was elected to his first term in 1962 by 91 votes.

The dumping of Rolvaag stirred a wave of sympathy in the state. Many political analysts regarded him as the favorite in today's balloting, expected to bring out 600,000 to 700,000 votes.

In Massachusetts, Edward J. McCormack, former attorney general, contends with Kenneth P. O'Donnell, once an aide to President John F. Kennedy, for the Democratic nomination for governor. McCormack, a nephew of House Speaker John McCormack, D-Mass., was endorsed by the state party convention.

Former Gov. Endicott Peabody, endorsed for the Senate nomination, is opposed by Mayor John F. Collins of Boston and Thomas B. Adams, a Boston businessman.

Carley Raps Sen. Nelson for Lack of Support

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Democratic gubernatorial candidate David Carley complained today that his one time Wisconsin political mentor, Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., had maintained "A discreet silence about the campaign in Wisconsin."

Carley was told by a newsman that Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., had announced support for the primary campaign of Lt. Gov. Patrick Lucey.

Snapped Carley, "Senator Proxmire thinks more politically of his friends than Senator Nelson does."

Carley said that he would have welcomed Sen. Nelson's help, but added that he had not asked for support from any state or national politician.

Criticizes Newspaper The democratic national committeeman, had called the news conference to criticize the Milwaukee Journal for "allowing itself to be used by a candidate."

Carley said he referred to an article in the Sunday Journal which stated that Sens. Robert and Edward Kennedy would appear in support of Patrick Lucey's campaign for governor after the primary.

"Who does the Milwaukee Journal think it is to feature a story as if the Democratic nomination for Governor has already been decided," demanded Carley.

China's Youthful Red Guards Clash With Crowd of 100,000

Troops Called to Restore Order As Reformers Move Into City

TOKYO (AP) — Communist clash at Kweilin, a city some 250 miles northwest of Canton, was one of several in a number of cities involving the Red Guards and local peasants and laborers.

"Certain Mistakes" The clash at Kweilin was reported by the correspondent of Yomiuri Shimbun.

The Peking People's Daily said Monday the students have made "certain mistakes," but added "no matter what the pretext, fighting between the students and farmers and laborers must not be permitted."

The reports of violence indicated that official advice in the People's Daily urging the Red Guards to stop using force and asking others to accept the cultural revolution was not taking effect.

From Hong Kong came reports from travelers to Red China of mass suicides last month in Canton and Shanghai due to molestation by the Red Guards.

Nixon Begins Stumping for Republicans

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP) — Richard M. Nixon, the unsuccessful Republican candidate for president in 1960 who is considered one of his party's leading candidates for the 1968 presidential nomination, begins a 34,000-mile trip today to campaign for GOP candidates in 34 states.

But although the trip may bring him valuable support for the nomination, the former vice president turned aside questions on his ambitions for 1968.

"Let's get 1966 out of the way first and then there will be plenty of opportunity to talk about 1968," he said Monday after meeting with former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, under whom he served for eight years.

He outlined his trip after the 90-minute meeting in Eisenhower's office on the Gettysburg College campus. He said he and the former president discussed foreign affairs, including Nixon's recent visit to Viet Nam, and the fall election campaign.

The first leg of Nixon's campaign tour will be a speech to the Overseas Press Club in New York. He will go on to speak in 61 congressional districts.

Rep. Byrnes Critical of Tax Proposal

Anti-Inflation Measure Could be Lifted, Fowler Says

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republicans offered critical questioning Monday on President Johnson's anti-inflation proposals as Administration spokesmen insisted the main purpose of the proposals is not to raise tax money.

Treasury Secretary Henry Fowler told the House Ways and Means Committee the possibility of future direct tax hike requests was left open.

The senior Republican member of the committee, Rep. John W. Byrnes of Wisconsin, developed in questioning Fowler the theme that suspension of the investment credit would have little effect because of time factors.

Boy Dies, Brother Critical After Eating Berries

MILWAUKEE (AP) — A small boy whose brother died of poisoning was reported in critical condition at a hospital Monday suffering from severe abdominal pains.

The medical examiner's office said Juan Pena, 5, died at the hospital Sunday night and that an autopsy showed he had ingested "a toxic substance."

His brother, Nicholas, was in critical condition.

Their father, Raphael Pena, told authorities he had seen his children picking berries in their back yard Friday morning and that Juan complained of stomach pains the following morning.

Stephen Gaydos Jr., a horticulturist for the county park commission, identified the berries in the Pena yard as European bitter-sweet and said it was a poisonous plant common to this area.

Liberal Party
Picks FDR, Jr.,
But Grudgingly

New York Governor
Race Damaging to Democratic Party

BY ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

NEW YORK — The state convention of New York's Liberal Party was bored, unenthusiastic and not a little unhappy last Thursday night as it went about the incredible business of nominating Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., for governor.

Evans Novak

from Manhattan's East Side pointed to Roosevelt on the platform and said: "It's ironic.
He'll probably get more votes than any candidate we ever had but wreck the party at the same time."

Indeed, in its desperate efforts to keep ahead of the rival Conservative Party in New York state's disruptive multi-party politics, the Liberal Party may have gone too far this time with its Roosevelt play.

Besides splitting Liberal ranks, Roosevelt's nomination obliterates remaining vestiges of the party's original intention to exert a progressive influence on both the Republican and Democratic parties in the state.

Roosevelt Sabotaged

To understand fully the political cynicism underlying Roosevelt's nomination, a little background is necessary. Elected to Congress from Manhattan in 1949 (at age 35) as a Liberal against the regular Democratic candidate, Roosevelt promptly dropped his Liberal ties and announced himself a Democrat when he got to Washington.

Alex Rose, head of the Hatter's
Union and boss of the Liberal Party, was furious. A feud of monumental proportions began.

Rose aborted Roosevelt's career in 1954 by using his influence in the Democratic Party to keep Roosevelt from the governor's nomination. What is not so well known is that

Rose also was responsible for sabotaging Roosevelt's unannounced plans in the spring of 1955 to run for mayor of New York City.

Prepared to seek the Democratic nomination for mayor if he "could also get the Liberal nomination," Roosevelt went hat-in-hand to the Liberal leaders.
To appease them, he even reneged on a private promise to back the unsuccessful bid for re-election to Congress by boss
Charles Buckley of the Bronx.
Still, Rose vetoed him, keeping Roosevelt out of the race.

Rose Changes Mind

Moreover, just autumn, Rose told friends the one man the Liberals could never back for governor, even if the Democrats nominated him, was Frank Roosevelt. What changed his mind had nothing to do with issues but everything to do with power politics.

As the Democratic Party came closer to nominating Frank O'Connor (president of the New York City Council) for governor this year, Rose got more and more worried. The Liberal Party is essentially a Jewish party. Because of that, O'Connor might run poorly on the Liberal voting line even if elected governor on the Democratic line. The fledgling Conservative Party then would outpoll the Liberals, deflating Rose's national political influence derived from his supposed power in New York.

Thus, Rose began threatening that the Liberals would go it alone with Roosevelt unless the Democrats dumped O'Connor.
Because of Republican Gov.
Nelson Rockefeller's weakness in his third term bid, the Democrats for once called Rose's bluff. Rose had to go through with Roosevelt's nomination — over serious internal Liberal opposition.

Wanted Negro Leader

Some came from the party's younger, more radical elements who wanted to nominate militant civil rights leader James Farmer — a Negro who might chase away the Jewish votes Rose needs to keep the party total high. These elements simply will not work for Roosevelt.

More important, however, is the opposition from President Louis Stulberg of the International Ladies Garment Workers Union (ILGWU), chief financier of the Liberal Party.

Appalled by Roosevelt, Stul-berg sought consideration of O'Connor by the Liberals but got nowhere against boss Rose.
Thus, while the convention was nominating Roosevelt at the Americana Hotel in mid-town Manhattan, Stulberg and other top ILGWU took a walk to attend a meeting at the union's unity house miles away in the garment district.

With the Liberal Party disintegrating, Rose's only hope is that the Roosevelt name will pull a half-million votes. If even that fails to stop O'Connor from beating Rockefeller, the Liberal Party's spell over the Democratic Party is ended. But whether O'Connor or Rockefeller wins, Rose and the Liberal

Dirksen, Mansfield
Not Necessarily Behind Him Though

WASHINGTON (AP)—Among the trials and tribulations of President Johnson are the Democratic and Republican leaders of the Senate, long-time friends and helpers who go along with him but only sometimes.

Take the Republican leader, Sen. Everett M. Dirksen, 70, of Illinois. He said on occasion he and Johnson telephone each other six or seven times a day. When he was hospitalized recently with a broken hip, Johnson called him daily.

Earlier this year when the Republican House leader, Gerald R. Ford of Michigan, accused the Johnson administration of shocking mismanagement of the war in Viet Nam, Dirksen refused to endorse the criticism.

Came Away Satisfied

But this summer Dirksen accused Johnson of not being "candid or consistently credible" on the war. Then two days later, after a White House meeting with other congressional leaders, Dirksen came away calling it a "satisfying experience."

Last year he was a main prop in getting the civil rights bill through the Senate. But now he has just about killed all hope for the 1966 bill. First, he opposed the open housing section. Then he said he disliked other sections.

Then he said he would oppose the whole bill. Without him, and the Republican help he could muster, the administration can hardly hope to crush the inevitable Southern filibuster. A two-thirds vote is needed to shut off debate.

That Dirksen zigs and zags is a fact of life. The New York Times reported that during Dirksen's 6 years as a member of the House he had changed his position 31 times on military preparedness, 62 times on isolationism, and 70 times on agricultural policy.

Now take the Democratic leader of the Senate, Mike Mansfield, 63, of Montana. He was Johnson's right-hand man in the 1950s when Johnson was Senate leader. Mansfield got the job in 1961 when Johnson became vice president.

Since then he has been Johnson's captain in steering administration legislation through the Senate, a quiet, kind, gentle man who believes a senator should speak out when he feels strongly about something, if he is qualified to speak.

President Galled

Recently Mansfield proposed that Johnson meet with French President Charles de Gaulle in a French island in the Caribbean to talk about peace in Viet Nam.
This must have galled Johnson, who stiff-arms the Frenchman.

But the White House said nothing. It let the State Department do the speaking and the State Department brushed the idea aside.

More recently Mansfield truly agitated Johnson when, speaking for the 13-member Senate Democratic Policy committee, he proposed that the Senate quickly pass a resolution saying U.S. forces in Europe should be substantially reduced.

The administration doesn't want any part of troop withdrawal from Europe right now.
Dirksen quickly rushed to Johnson's aid by insisting that before the Senate vote on the Mansfield suggestion a Senate committee should hold hearings on it. This would take time and probably will kill the idea altogether.

Backs Johnson

Every time there is an international crisis, Dirksen backs Johnson, believing you can't let the President down when there is a war on.

He calls himself a "garden variety of Abraham Lincoln," says he has tried to be a "negative brake" on progress when he thinks the country is in danger of moving too fast.

Mansfield and Dirksen, except

LBJ Still Temporizing With Inflation

President Johnson continues to temporize with the dangerous inflationary trend of the nation's economy and to adopt halfway measures aimed at the symptoms of the problem rather than facing up to the basic causes. He obviously wishes the whole economy could be made to stand still until after the November Congressional elections.

Late last week he combined two actions which taken together make absolutely no economic sense. He signed into a law a bill hurriedly pushed through the Democratic Congress to pump $4.76 billions of federal money into home building activity, which has been curtailed by the tight money market and the rise in interest rates. But in the same breath he called upon Congress to suspend the 7 per cent investment credit given to industry several years ago to encourage investment in new plant and equipment, and to repeal the more rapid depreciation rates allowed industry on such investments.

Even Secretary of the Treasury Fowler was reluctant to endorse the latter measure. He has called it a breach of faith with industry which of necessity must plan many years ahead to modernize and replace its physical plant.

What the President is saying is that in the present situation building of homes is good for the economy but that building by industry is not good. And he completely ignores two basic facts. The first is that one of the built-in cures for inflation in our free enterprise system is that higher prices increase the incentive for industry to expand production to meet popular demand. And the second is that the real cause of the present inflation pressures is the greatly escalating level of federal expenditures for the war in Viet Nam and at the same time for the Great Society here at home.

Full Speed Ahead

Again the Appleton City Council has acted prudently in arriving at what was intended and interpreted to be a final decision on the type of parking layout to be employed on College Avenue when the city's main business district is redesigned and reconstructed, starting in the spring of 1967.

All the pros and cons of angle vs. parallel parking have been exhausted over a period of years and now city officials and engineers can devote full attention to expediting the working plans and specifications for the "new" Avenue, following the Harland Bartholomew plan adopted by the Plan Commission and Common Council.

The Council's vote on the Avenue parking was solid and conclusive, and it is hoped all merchants and property owners in the central business district will forget their differences and band together to support the major public works improvements to be undertaken in the future.

It has been made quite clear that projects to be undertaken to rejuvenate the central business district in the coming years are aimed at the good of the overall community — not just Avenue merchants and property owners. However, the latter do have a vested interest and it is being protected by the progressive moves being charted by municipal planners.

Things are in a state of change and it is imperative we accept change to make for a bigger and better Appleton. When municipal issues are finally settled — such as the College Avenue parking — there are no victories or defeats, but rather an understanding which should be accepted by all.

With the planning of Avenue reconstruction now full speed ahead, construction of a new downtown parking structure scheduled to start soon and budget time drawing near, it might be well for city officials to turn their attention to that phase of the central business district plan calling for additional off-street parking sites at the East and West ends of the Avenue.

In the meantime, cooperation should be the byword if Appleton is to retain its place as the hub of the Fox Cities.

Grain for India's Sacred Cows

It has been estimated that millions of people would die of starvation or be seriously undernourished in India this year. Crop failures due both to weather conditions and the old-fashioned agriculture methods have meant that grain shortages will be acute despite purchases and gifts from other countries including the United States.

But there is still widespread agitation to ban cow slaughter throughout India and since this is a religious matter, it is a touchy one.

Cattle are sacred to the Hindu and millions of cows roam the streets of cities and villages. They eat grain and of course cannot be killed for food. Half a dozen Indian states already have laws outlawing the slaughter of cows for any purpose. But the fanatical swamis are pressing for more legislation.

Some 5,000 demonstrators paraded outside the lower house of India's Parliament recently while a Hindu leader inside shouted "Glory to mother cow and destruction to the Government that kills the cow!" So far the Parliament has resisted the demands but the pressures are likely to increase.

There are understandable criticisms of the "secular" society in this country and what often appears to be a decrease in spiritual values. And yet when one sees the fanatical religious antagonisms and superstitions which hold back economic progress in new countries and even doom thousands of children to death by starvation, the difference is apparent.

The Bear Creek School Problem

The problem of the future of the Bear Creek School District in Outagamie County would seem to be further complicated by the recent order of the Cooperative Educational School Agency to detach an area at the southeast corner of the district and attach it to the New London City system.

Piecemeal detachment in the past of small parcels within the Bear Creek district to both the New London and Clintonville systems has been one of the major causes of the district's problems. School buses from New London and Clintonville run all over within the Bear Creek district picking up students to take them elsewhere to school. Actually if the Bear Creek district had its nearest territory it would have over $10 million valuation compared with its present $3,750,000, and considerably more students.

Earlier this year the CESA ordered the total attachment of the Bear Creek district to the Clintonville system, and this newspaper supported that idea. The order was defeated by referendum, however, in both Bear Creek and Clintonville. One reason it may have been rejected by Bear Creek residents is that Clintonville school officials did not make it clear what grades would be offered in Bear Creek without transportation to Clintonville and what use would be made of the new grade school and modern high school plants in the village.

A long range study of the future of the Bear Creek district by an impartial source such as the State Department of Public Instruction or the University of Wisconsin's research department might be the best means of obtaining an objective approach to the problem. There has been far too much emotion mixed up in decisions made in the past which ignored the good of the students involved.

And detaching another portion of the district and giving it to a system which doesn't need additional territory is not any solution to the problem.

Dance Sensation Arrives on Scene

100 YEARS AGO
Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for Sept. 15, 1866.

A dancing master has introduced a new sensation which is very peculiar and destined to be extensively practiced. It is styled the "Kiss Cotillion." In this dance the gentleman always kisses the lady as they "swing the corners." It will be introduced at the Young Folks' Socials in Neenah next Winter. — Neenah Times.

Editor Stone, you ought not to have said anything about that matter, for our girls and fellows will be sure to dance at Neenah whenever any such dances take place.

People's Forum

Other Cities' Business Areas Grow Without Angle Parking

Editor, Post-Crescent:
Regarding the comments in Wednesday night's People's Forum from the "Housewife from South Side" . . . how can this lady possibly have a valid drivers license if she cannot parallel park? This is a part of the drivers test. Her comment "If some of us attempted parallel parking, the rate (accident) would surely increase" proves her driving ability to be very limited. Perhaps she had better give up her drivers license and walk, thereby making it safer for the rest of us.

We hope that the people who have been elected to office will consider what the majority wants, and not be influenced by a few who do not know how to park an automobile. Lets use our parking ramps!

If the few merchants who are against angle parking would think for just a moment that progress will eventually keep up from parking at the door step, they would no longer be content with the horse and buggy days appearance which angle parking gives College Avenue. The bickering is only delaying progress. If Green Bay, Fond du Lac, Sheboygan and other neighboring towns have grown without angle parking on main thoroughfares, we can do it too.

Last but not least, let us consider the damage done to cars by careless individuals who open their car doors against the next car without bothering to note the damage done.

Our family has already avoided buying from the merchants who refuse to go along with our city planners, and shall continue to do so if angle parking remains in effect.

Parallel Parking Opponents Are 'Unsure' Behind Wheel

Editor, Post-Crescent:

In regard to parallel parking, I believe most of the people against parallel parking are people who are unsure of themselves behind the wheel of the car. Angle parking is not the best in Appleton because how many times do you back up without being able to see if any cars are coming? How many times is it hard to get in the driver's side or try to back out of the stall and find that you can't because the other car is too close or you are driving along in the outside lane and have to stop because someone was waiting for a parking stall or a parked car was out to far? You would then have to wait till there is room for you to pull over to the other lane.

Some major cities have parallel parking and it does not hurt local business. We are becoming a larger city so we should be progressive. College Avenue is not suited to have angle parking and at the same time four lanes of traffic to move freely and quickly.

There are two metered parking ramps in Appleton and a third about to be constructed, all no more than one block from College Avenue. The city government is attempting to maintain the central shopping area of Appleton and the surrounding communities.

Fight for Freedom Goes on Today as It Did in 1776

Editor, Post-Crescent:

On August 31, a letter appeared in the People's Forum entitled, "Does Life Still Have Meaning?" I felt compelled to write a reply.

I agree the boys in Viet Nam should be given more recognition in the newspaper. But how could anyone even conceive the idea that we are involved in a war just to gain power?

We must face the fact. Freedom isn't free. We had to fight for it in 1776 and we will have to fight to keep it now in 1966.

Mrs. Madderson stated the Communists will always be there. (In Russia I presume). Does that mean they will never be here? Their ultimate aim is for the entire world to be under Communist rule. If this seems hard to believe take a look at a map sometime. Notice the size of the Communist world now as compared to 25 years ago. What will it look like 25 years from now?

It's true the United States has many inner conflicts and problems which need solving. But isolating ourselves from the rest of the world isn't the answer.

Mrs. Madderson also stated that she hoped and prayed that the eyes of the American people would be opened. A good majority of them are open, not just for today, but for tomorrow, for next week, next year, etc. She asked,

Greenwood Jr., Leo Van De Loo, Grover Patterson, David Kilgas, the Rev. A. J. Baier and Frank Austin Jr.

Mrs. Hollis Whitman was the new president of the Kaukauna Band Mothers Club. Mrs. William Krueger was vice president, Mrs. Orr Glandt secretary, and Mrs. William Ludke treasurer.

Annual Sessions Are Tied in With Higher Pay for Legislators

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — Some of the informed and responsible critics of the proposal for a substantial advance in the salary of the members of the State Legislature have objected to legislative housekeeping possessed by their more senior colleagues.

Typically, moreover, the electorate's approval is more difficult to obtain on constitutional changes, than the endorsement of the legislature. The legislature, in the nature of things, is more sophisticated about the issues, since most of them have evolved over long periods and have had ample discussion and study in the legislative session each year, given the image of the legislators in the minds of their constituents in representative districts.

Wyngaard

ed that as long as that body meets on a biennial basis, its members will have parttime jobs that won't warrant the comparatively high salary of $8,400 a year now awaiting final enactment.

The criticism is probably sound, but these men curiously overlook the fact that the Kellett Committee report which documented the case for higher legislative pay deliberately associated it with annual sessions to replace the biennial deliberations of tradition.

The committee performed in an advisory capacity. It had no authority or opportunity to make its plan for salaries conditional in fact. But the conclusion was clear enough. The committee expressly urged the legislature to start the machinery rolling for a constitutional amendment that would provide for yearly legislative sittings, including a plan for financial review and budget adjustments in the second session of the biennium that would meet the increasing objections about inaccurate guess-work budgeting on a two year basis.

PROSPECTS GOOD

There is no way to calculate the chances for such an amendment, either in the reaction of the 1967 Legislature, which must approve it, or in the later attitude of the electorate when the time comes to submit the idea to a referendum.

The next legislature, like all others, will show a substantial flavoring of new members. Some of them may not appreciate the idea of changing the session rules, since they won't have the knowledge of the proceedings and the time requirements of modern legis-

SMALLER BODY?

Other critics have grumbled that the legislature, as a kind of quid pro quo in the legislature pay developments, should act to reduce the size of its own membership as a gesture toward economy and perhaps toward more efficient deliberation. If legislative office will ultimately reach fulltime compensation, perhaps the lawmaker should assume the responsibility for a larger district, according to this reasoning.

The idea has merit, academically at least. Readers will remember that it has been suggested here several times during the months of discussion about legislative emoluments, as a constructive proposal. In this instance there are no constitutional barriers. The constitution sets the maximum size of legislative membership, which was attained long ago. But the lawmakers on their own motion can reduce the number of seats in their houses to any figure as long as they adhere to the rule that the State Senate has one third of the membership of the assembly. No one can seriously argue that the Wisconsin Assembly with 100 members, for example, performs more responsible or effectively than hundreds of smaller legislative bodies, including those of the largest cities and counties of the country.

But there is involved the obstacles of human nature. Legislators simply won't act to repeal their own offices. They were not able to modify the boundaries of their own districts to conform to changing population statistics, it will be recalled. They defaulted and accepted a Supreme Court decree to do so instead.

Nobody Loves the Guy Called Drama Critic

BY SYNDEY J. HARRIS

A recent ruckus in London between a drama critic and a producer has prompted one of my readers in Montreal to ask why drama critics seem to be in hot water much more frequently than commentators on any of the other arts.

I think the answer is quite

simple: Among the arts, only the theater attracts an audience so wide and so diverse, for so many different reasons.

Books, music, painting — all these have their separate audiences. The man who reads philosophy and history doesn't care what a critic says about a new novel; and the man who reads new novels is indifferent to the criticism of "high-brow" books.

Similarly, the man who goes to hear Serkin play the piano is profoundly unconcerned about Liberace; while the Liberace fan doesn't even bother to read the reviews of serious music. Each lives in a separate world.

But the theater is a strange amalgam: It is, at once, an art-form, an industry, and a source of entertainment. It attracts all levels — including people who have nothing in common in the rest of the arts. A "show" is a show to most everybody.

The serious book critic is writing for a special audience, and does not pretend that a hifalutin' book will interest the mass of readers. The cheaper, or trivial, books are generally given a paragraph of comment — and, no matter how disparaging, the people who enjoy such books continue to read them.

A drama critic, however, finds himself facing an almost insuperable task. The theater is all things to all people. Everybody brings different standards and different tastes with him; audiences are mixed, in a way they never are in symphony halls or art museums or libraries.

Moreover, a book can survive adverse critical comment. Thousands of copies are published, and sometimes even after months (or, in rare cases, years) a book finds favor and leaps into the best-selling class.

A play has a peculiarly precarious life. Its mortality rate generally depends on the way it is treated the first few days. If critical reaction is bad, it is almost forced to close, for the continuing expenses are unlike anything in the other arts. Thus, the drama critic has a dangerous life-or-death power over the ordinary production.

The situation is not easy of solution. The public must be protected from inferior, or fraudulent, goods; the playwright and producer must be given fair treatment; and the highly diversified audience must be somehow reconciled to a common standard of taste. It's a wonder more drama critics aren't shot between the acts.

Violence Mars Integration of Dixie Schools

man outside a junior high school which was integrated without incident last week.

Minor Difficulties
Police broke up the two militant "groups" after they faced each other armed with rifles, pistols and other weapons.

What started the trouble was not known, but it reportedly stemmed from a series of minor racial difficulties in the classrooms.

The Bogalusa Voters' League, a Negro organization, met Monday night and voted to hold a protest, march tonight despite a city ordinance against them. During the rally, league President A. Z. Young told the crowd: "When you get some money, don't spend it on wine. Get a gun."

A mob of some 300 Negro youths went on a rampage following a high school football game in Des Moines, Iowa, Monday night and reports of rocks and bottles being thrown continued through the early morning hours. Three persons were injured and at least 15 cars were damaged by the missiles.

Broke Windows
The youths broke windows in a number of homes and shattered plate glass windows of several businesses before police managed to break up the crowd.

Elsewhere on the racial scene:

In Washington, President Johnson says his administration "will do everything we can" to obtain passage of the pending civil rights bill—with its controversial open housing section—but the Senate may set it to rest Wednesday by failing to cut off debate.

In Pointe à la Hache, La., one of five Plaquemines Parish schools integrated under federal court order had no teachers for the 31 Negroes who enrolled. The entire faculty of Woodlawn High School quit last week to join the staff of a proposed private school and the 250 white pupils of the school remained at home.

In Montgomery
In Montgomery, Ala., the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People has asked a federal court to bar Alabama from enforcing a new law which seeks to halt school integration. The suit also seeks a three-judge federal court panel to rule on the constitutionality of the law asked by Gov. George C. Wallace to defy school desegregation guidelines issued by the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

In McFarlan, N.C., the FBI and local officers are investigating the bombing of the homes of two Negro families whose children have entered a predominantly white school. No one was injured in the blasts early Monday.

Other Incidents
In Beaver Falls, Pa., pickets marched in front of the Freedom area high school nearby to protest alleged racial discrimination in the hiring of teachers and other employees and the selection of cheerleaders and majorettes.

In New York, 12 young members of the Black Panthers, a militant Negro nationalist group, were arrested for staging a noise demonstration outside a Harlem junior high school. The protesters were demanding that certain supervisory personnel be fired or transferred and that Negro history be included in the curriculum.

Milwaukee Considers Drive-in Window for Payments of Alimony

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — Milwaukee County is considering opening a drive-in window for convenient payments of alimony.

"This might be an incentive for a man to make his payments current," said Francis X. McCormack, clerk of courts, Monday.

McCormack said the idea, to be studied by a county board committee, would "help a lot of people."

An alimony payer "wouldn't have to double park, jump out of his car, run into the court house and stand in line to make his payment," he said.

Gordon Hot, Shortens Planned Space Walk

pushed a short distance away from the ship.
He went over to the Agena and straddled it, resting again before attaching the 100-foot cord.

"I'm breathing hard," Gordon said.

"Just take it easy," his flying companion told him.

After a few minutes, Gordon's breathing started to settle down.

Dr. Charles A. Berry, the flight surgeon, monitored the health of the astronauts in the control center and reported both were doing fine.

He said that Gordon's heart and Conrad's to 120 in the initial phase of the walk. Both normally have readings in the 70s.

The astronauts spent several hours unpacking and hooking up all the gear for the walk, including a 30-foot lifeline to feed Gordon oxygen from the cabin supply system, and a chest pack with an emergency supply of the life-giving gas.

They finished the preparation half an hour early and Conrad told the ground:

"We're way ahead of schedule. We're going to power down for a little rest."

Conrad said the No. 8 thruster — the same one which locked open and sent Gemini 8 into a mission-scrubbing spin — appeared to have "pooped out." He said when he tried to use it to yaw left the spacecraft responded with a right roll.

Flight control said the balky thruster would be tested on a pass over Carnarvon, Australia, to determine if the problem was electrical or mechanical — perhaps a stuck valve.

There was no apparent concern for the mission. Controllers said astronauts L. Gordon Cooper Jr. and Conrad lost two thrusters and partial use of a third during the Gemini 5 flight.

Opposite Problem
They specifically pointed out that the problem was the opposite of that which occurred during Gemini 8, when the thruster stuck open and started the ship spinning, forcing an early splashdown in the Pacific.

This followed two minor problems still with Gemini 11.

Pilot Richard F. Gordon Jr. was given permission earlier to wipe a dirty windshield during his first of two scheduled space walks.

The dirty windshield — fogged slightly during the launch ascent — was one of two minor problems facing the record-setting astronauts as they prepared for Gordon's lengthy spacewalk.

The other problem was the failure of instruments to show that the Agena target satellite received commands from the spacecraft it is docked with.

Neither, apparently, was serious. "We don't see any real problem that's going to hurt either your tethering or the other portions of the mission right now," flight control told the crew.

Gordon and Conrad were awakened at 11:55 a.m. Conrad told ground control they were "bright-eyed and bushy-tailed" and ready to go to work.

Slept 4 Hours
A flight surgeon reported they slept four of eight hours in the sleep cycle, much as any traveler in his first night away from home and much the same as previous Gemini fliers.

Wednesday, Conrad plans to undock and back away from the Agena until the line becomes taut to determine if this is an effective, fuel-saving means of formation flying.

The pilots and mission controllers hoped for as much success today as the astronauts had

Monday, after the twice-delayed flight finally got off the launch pad at Cape Kennedy.
In the most flawless first-day performance yet for a U.S. man-in-space mission, Conrad and Gordon darted off the pad atop a Titan 2 rocket at 9:42 a.m. and sped unerringly after the Agena, which blasted off at 8:05 a.m.

First In Orbit
Before they completed one circuit of the globe they had captured the target, docking with it in record time.

They had beaten the previous Gemini rendezvous time by two orbits and nearly three hours.

Then, in history's first multiple-docking mission, the two pilots took turns unliking and re-joining with the Agena.

Each man docked twice, under conditions of light and darkness to evaluate any differences. They reported none.

Multiple dockings planned on previous Gemini flights were wiped out after problems cropped up.

The rapid rendezvous, achieved with no help from the ground, was an important rehearsal for America's Apollo man-to-the-moon shots.

Emergency Takeoff
It simulated an emergency takeoff from the moon by two astronauts who might have to make a hasty rendezvous with an Apollo mother ship in lunar orbit.

It also demonstrated the ability of the astronauts to use their on-board equipment — computer, inertial guidance system and radar — to calculate all the intricate maneuvers required for the split-second orbit shifts during the space hunt. Apollo astronauts will be required to do this.

On earlier Gemini rendezvous journeys, ground computers figured the maneuvers and readings were fed to the astronauts.

William Schneider, Gemini mission director, said of the first orbit catchup:

"With that we achieved our prime objective of the flight. The purpose of Gemini is to explore various methods of rendezvous. This method would be a backup abort mode for the Apollo, so we're very pleased we got it."

Conrad used his fuel sparingly and when he reported, after the first docking, that he still had 56 per cent remaining, ground told him: "That's great, Pete."

Some experts felt that 75 per cent fuel usage might be required to zero in on the target.

The astronauts packed a batch of experiments into their busy first day in space, including the photographing of two comets and a mysterious light in the heavens called the Gegen-schein.

On tap Wednesday are three highlights: an early morning dash to a record altitude of 863 miles, using the Agena engine; a 140-minute "space stand" in which Gordon is to stick the upper half of his body outside the craft to photograph selected stars, and the formation-flying test with the Agena.

In a warmup for the Agena firing, the astronauts fired up the big engine briefly Monday.

This jolted them briefly out of their weightless world, imparting a load of one G, about the same gravity as man is subjected to on earth.

did not know who shot her. She stumbled and crawled from the rear of her house to the front lawn after she was shot. Two neighbors saw her immediately after she was struck.

Police later found a single shot, .12 gauge shotgun and a blood trail in the Edward Kubitz garage. The blood trailed to the Kubitz home.

Shot Accidentally
The man told detectives he accidentally shot himself in the foot as he was unloading a gun.

Kubitz' wife told police she first knew her husband was injured when she came out the rear door and observed him

The dead woman's ex-husband, Lyle, 34, lived with his parents at 1422 E. Wisconsin Avenue. He reportedly was inside the Edward Kubitz house with the couple's two young children at the time of the shooting.

Lyle Kubitz and his wife had been divorced since March. The dead woman lived with her two children, ages 5 and 9.

Chemist Says Herbs Might Halt Cancer

MADISON (AP) — Several herbs used in folk medicine to combat cancer have proved effective in halting growth of tumors in rats and mice under scientific testing, a University of Wisconsin chemist said today.

Prof. S. Morris Kupchan said 12 anti-cancer compounds had been isolated in seven years of tests with plants from all over the world. None of the compounds has been tested yet on humans, Kupchan said.

"The program to date has demonstrated that several new types of compounds show significant growth-inhibitory activity," said Kupchan. "It is hoped that some of the new natural products will show sufficient promise in further animal studies to become candidates for clinical evaluation in the near future."

The scientist, who was honored by the American Pharmacy Association for his research last year, made his comments in a speech to be delivered today at the annual meeting of the American Chemical Society in New York. The speech was made public by the university here.

Kupchan said extracts from such sources as bittersweet and box elder had been found to retard the growth of tumors in rodents.

"One extract which showed inhibitory activity against tumors came from a plant which has been used to treat cancer in Costa Rica for many years," Kupchan said.

Finding of Claims Board Ruled Not Appealable

MADISON (AP) — Extended efforts by Assemblyman Earl Elfers, D-Trevor, to recover $7,296 salary and expenses for the 1963 legislative session were rebuffed again Monday.

Circuit Judge Edwin Wilkie ruled that Elfers had no legal basis for seeking a judicial review of the State Claims Commission conclusion that rejected his request for reimbursement.

After Elfers was seated in the 1963 session, his election was contested by Republican Russell A. Olson of Bassett. The GOP-controlled Assembly ruled after a recount that Olson was the winner. It unseated Elfers and replaced him with Olson.

Since then Elfers has taken his case to recover the salary and expenses to Kenosha Circuit Court, which held he was able to recover the money and to the State Supreme Court, which reversed the decision because it said it did not have jurisdiction.

Wilkie granted a state motion that Elfers does not have legal basis for review of the decision by the State Claims Commission but he allowed Elfers to file another complaint within 20 days. Elfers defeated Olson in the 1964 race for the Assembly seat and both are entered in today's primary election.

In Burlington, Iowa Wisconsin Youth Dies In Police Shootout

BURLINGTON, Iowa (AP) — A polite Wisconsin youth of "near genius intelligence" was killed Monday night in a shootout with law officers he had ordered his hostage to call.

Paul Christensen, 17, of Waterloo, Wis., was shot in the yard of the rural Oak Grove church, seven miles south of Burlington by Des Moines County deputy sheriffs Russell Krieger and Leroy Peterson.

They said Christensen came out of the house next door where he had held William Pierson, 62, a hostage. The officers said he then advanced toward them "with his arms held out to the side like a gunman in a television western," pulled a .22 calibre revolver and fired several shots before they returned his fire.

Pierson, a retired milk truck driver, said he was at home alone when Christensen knocked at the door. He said the youth pointed a gun and ordered him to call the Highway Patrol and ask them to send "six highway patrolmen in three cars."

Patrol headquarters called the police dispatcher's office in Burlington, which sent three deputy sheriffs and a Highway Patrol sergeant in three cars.

Krieger said that as he and Peterson approached the back door, Christensen pointed a gun and said, "Sir don't come any closer. Turn around and walk back toward the tree."

He said the two retreated to a tree in the yard and then began trying to talk the youth into putting the gun down.

The deputies said Christensen shut the door and came out of the front door a few minutes later with the gun in the waistband of his trousers. He drew suddenly as he walked toward them and the shooting started.

Waterloo Police Chief Bob Meitner described Christensen as of "near genius intelligence" and said he had never been in trouble and had no police record.

He said however, that the youth, son of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Christensen of rural Waterloo, apparently had a "deep problem which he kept to himself."

Charm Course To be Offered

Appleton School of Vocational and Adult Education will sponsor a course on charm and personality beginning Oct. 3. The ten-week course will be held from 7 to 9 p.m. Tuesdays at the school.

Mrs. Lawrence Pooler, a former model, will instruct classes on such areas of personal charm as poise, including posture and carriage; the social graces; conversational "do's and don'ts" and correct use of voice; diet and exercise for weight control and beauty; grooming and make-up art, and proper hairstyling and fashions for the individual face and figure.

Correction

In the story of the Sept. 3 wedding of Miss Joette Anne Wheeler and Dennis D. Defferding, in the Sunday Post-Crescent, the bride was listed as the daughter of Mrs. Esther Wheeler, 837½ E. College Ave., and the late J. G. Wheeler. Mr. Wheeler is not deceased. The Post-Crescent was misinformed and regrets the error.

CAC Begins Fall Teen Program

Margaret Planner and Ellen Balliet sold tickets and stamped the hands of teens who attended Friday evening's opening CAC winter program. Holding her hand for marking is Ellen Balliet. At right, Lynn Erickson spent at least part of the evening in the refreshment stand. She gives Chuck Lang his change after serving him and Cathy Lund.

High School young people from the area began their Catholic Activities Council winter program at a dance Friday evening. The record hop was held from 8 to 11 p.m. at St. Mary Catholic School. The program will provide teens with social, recreational and sport activities. Friday and Saturday sessions will be from 8 to 11 p.m. and Tuesday from 7 to 10 p.m.

The Friday evening dance brought back old friends who had not been seen through the summer, and gave newcomers the chance to get acquainted. CAC is a Red Feather Agency and is open to all area residents.

Music and Dancing, Along with cooler weather and the start of school put teens in the mood for an evening of fun. Dancers requested favorite records from Bob Piel during the Friday party. Below, Barb Bayer and Don Davis sit one out while others watch the dancers from the sidelines.

Double Ring Ceremony Performed

CHILTON — Miss Shirley Karls, Milwaukee, and Robert J. Jost exchanged nuptial vows at 1 p.m. Saturday at Holy Trinity Catholic Church, Jericho. The Rev. Walter F. Luschel officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Karls, route 2, Chilton. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Jost, Milwaukee.

Mrs. Donald Karls, sister-in-law of the bride, attended as matron of honor. Mrs. Thomas Jost, Mrs. Frank Fuhrman and Miss Victoria Zanon were bridesmaids. Miss Sheri Moehn was miniature bride.

Thomas Jost, a brother of the bridegroom, performed the duties of best man. Groomsmen were Donald Karls, Kenneth Karls and Robert Schoen.

Guests were seated by Arthur Moehn and John Jost. The couple was honored at a reception at Zeigelbauer Hall, Jericho.

The bride, who attended Wisconsin State University-Oshkosh, and was graduated from St. Joseph Hospital School of X-ray Technology, Milwaukee, is an X-ray Technologist at the hospital. Her husband, graduated from the University of Wisconsin, Madison, is employed by the Motor Transport Co., Milwaukee.

After a wedding trip to northern Wisconsin and Michigan, the couple will reside at 2328A N. 64th St., Milwaukee.

Stamps Mark Anniversary of Women's Clubs

The 75th anniversary of the General Federation of Women's Clubs was marked in a commemorative stamp issued Monday by Postmaster General Lawrence F. O'Brien. The stamp was designed by New York artist Charles Henry Carter and shows women in fashions of yesterday and today. At the left of a blue oval are the words, "75 Years of Service for Freedom and Growth".

12 Steps of AA Program Open Door to Sobriety, Happiness

BY JEAN OTTO

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Summer is about over. Faces are tanned. The men and women meeting at the hall of St. Mary Catholic School in Menasha look as if they've been about important interesting activities. They greet each other with smiles and warm welcome.

"How ya doin'?"

"Hi! It's nice to see you."

They sit at tables and, from time to time, groups rearrange themselves as newcomers arrive.

The person attending such a meeting for the first time is warmly greeted. Those long in AA say that the most important person at any meeting is the one there for the first time.

The occasion is important. The Menasha Chapter of Alcoholics Anonymous is celebrating its first anniversary.

Open Meeting

Women fuss with food in the kitchen. Men smoke pipes. Some are alcoholics... some are not.

Last of a Series

The occasion is an open meeting, with husbands and wives — even parents — of alcoholics as guests. It's impossible to tell the guests from the members.

One of the men acts as chairman. He reads from the chapter "How It Works" in the AA "Big Book", choosing the section that says an alcoholic can recover if he has the capacity to be honest. It notes there is no easier softer way. Alcoholics must be courageous and fearless.

His audience is attentive. Whether member or guest, the words he speaks are personal, for, to each, the compulsion to drink has brought heartache and unbelievable personal tragedy. Any word on alcoholism involves them.

Speaker for the evening is Mrs. Merle Schwei, psychiatric social worker at Winnebago State Hospital. She knows many of those present very well. They treat her as a friend. To those with whom she's worked, she has indeed been that.

Mrs. Schwei calls alcoholism a disease, a character disorder and a neurosis, the result of a developmental experience in the individual. No one, she says, has a blueprint on how to live. People have to find out by living. Everyone has disorders of some kind and to some degree, but their importance is determined by how the person functions in society, how he uses his potential and how harmonious he is, inside.

Mrs. Schwei attempts to define the alcoholic personality.

As people live, she says, they form character traits, and these change as life changes. If a person grows up without anxieties, with the right amount of love and the opportunity to vent his hostilities, he'll make it all right. Those who do not often have great dependency needs — they wish to go back to less difficult times, to rebel.

The alcoholic says he is inferior, but he also feels superior. He is not sure what he is or expects of himself. He goes from humility to grandiose dreams. He avoids competition, is lonely but keeps his distance and is hostile toward the world. The alcoholic is irresponsible and causes grief. He wants easy friendships and easy gratifications.

When an alcoholic comes to the hospital for help he wants someone to see through him and give him hope for a change.

They come for help during a life crisis — otherwise they wouldn't be there. But as desperate as they are for help, they throw up all sorts of walls to prevent it. The doctor or nurse finds it difficult not to react with anger, disappointment or contempt. Those who try to help — also human beings — feel it's a futile effort.

Not True

Doctors are learning to see that the personality traits an alcoholic presents are false, a contradiction to reality. The alcoholic hopes someone will see beyond the surface — that he will not ask help in vain. Though wanting this, he is preoccupied and bound up in inner struggle. Mrs. Schwei calls it a monotonous pattern of self-concern. The alcoholic excuses himself and his actions. He says he's been wronged, tells lies, wants some way to handle reality with no more effort than a magic word.

If the doctor challenges him he becomes angry; if he does not, he may deny his problem and then hope for help is lost.

All Different

Each alcoholic must be assessed individually. The doctor must ask: how chronic is the disease? what motivation does the patient have to be helped? how well does he recognize the forces and problems in his life? and does he have the courage to want to change?

In working with alcoholics, professional people must set new values, based on tolerance and helpfulness, Mrs. Schwei says.

With the alcoholic, progress is measured in inches rather than miles. There is hope, Mrs. Schwei asserts. Character and personality are not static. It is not so much what is said to the alcoholic, but the feeling and the deed that matter.

A man steps to the front of the group.

"My name is Dan," he says. "I'm an alcoholic and I'm glad to be here."

Dan talks informally, saying how much all have to gain from each other and how such meetings help them learn. Alcoholics Anonymous unity is very important, he feels, for if the group falters, the alcoholic may also falter... and die.

Only Desire

He calls the group a fellowship of men and women who share their problems and, through sharing, gather strength. The only requirement is that they want to stop drinking. There are no dues, no religious affiliation... only the desire to stay sober and to help others attain sobriety. Few can go it alone. Those who decide they don't need meetings may stay sober for a while, but, mentally, they are preparing the way for drunkenness again.

Day says his own alcoholism is physical, mental and spiritual, and that he needs all three phases of the program. What must be done, he must do alone, but he needs the help of all the others. He must stay close to the 12 AA Steps if he's to maintain "contented sobriety."

Best Way

An alcoholic needs guidelines for his life. One never graduates, can never "let up." The 12th step, referring to sponsorship, is most important, he says, for what one has gained is best kept by giving it away.

The only copy of the "Big Book", the Alcoholics Anonymous text, that most people see is "you, walking down the street sober." Dan told his fellow members.

Probably the words alcoholics read most in that book are the 12 Steps. They outline the creed through which alcoholics have come to grips with their compulsion and have learned to take control of their own lives.

These are the steps:

1—We admitted we were powerless over alcohol — that our lives had become unmanageable.

2—Came to believe that a Power greater than ourselves could restore us to sanity.

3—Made a decision to turn our will and our lives over to the care of God as we understood Him.

4—Made a searching and fearless moral inventory of ourselves.

5—Admitted to God, to ourselves, and to another human being the exact nature of our wrongs.

6—Were entirely ready to have God remove all these defects of character.

7—Humbly asked Him to remove our shortcomings.

8—Made a list of all persons we had harmed, and became willing to make amends to them all.

9—Made direct amends to such people wherever possible, except when to do so would injure them or others.

10—Continued to take personal inventory and when we were wrong promptly admitted it.

11—Sought through prayer and meditation to improve our conscious contact with God as we understood Him, praying only for knowledge of His will for us and the power to carry that out.

12—Having had a spiritual awakening as the result of these steps, we tried to carry this message to alcoholics, and to practice these principles in all our affairs.

AA, in helping the alcoholic achieve sobriety, is therefore concerned not only with his own sobriety, but with his family life and work. The AA member measures the quality of his sobriety, and knows that high ideals can be fulfilled only if they are sought. There is as much in AA as the individual wants to get from it.

And for the hidden alcoholic, the woman who drinks behind closed curtains and closed doors, there is hope only when both are opened, and the drinker and those who love her face alcoholism with courage and honesty.

'Too Young' Wife Warns Her Friend to Stop and Think

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm 18 and was engaged to be married in eight weeks. I said "was" because I broke the engagement after I received a letter from a very close friend.

I am going to enclose my friend's letter and ask you to print it. It really opened my eyes. Maybe it will open some other eyes around the country.

Landers

"Dear—

"I know you won't take my advice but I feel I must tell you. Please please think it over before you get married. I am exactly your age and it's been only ten months since I was a bride. But I can tell you, honey, we are both too young for marriage.

"We grew up together and I know how much fun and good times mean to you. I thought I could give up a lot of things because I was in love with Bill and I was sure that just being married would be a lot of fun—but I confess that the last four months haven't been any fun at all, just regrets.

"Before I married I remember what a blast it was to drive dad's nice car. Bill and I have an old piece of junk that sits in front of the house because we don't have money for gas.

"Do you know what it's like not to be able to buy a new dress, or a bottle of nail polish or a can of hair spray? Well, I do. And something else, you'll never realize how many things your mother did for you until you have to do them yourself. I used to change blouses twice a day, but I don't do that any more since I'm the one who has to wash and iron them.

"I thought marriage meant freedom. Well, it might have meant freedom from my parents, but now I have to answer to a husband who is ten times more demanding than my parents ever were.

"Have I mentioned loneliness? Well, get ready. Bill goes to work at 8:30 a.m. and comes home at 7 p.m. Two nights a week he's in school and one night a week he bowls with the guys. If you think your single friends are going to keep you company, forget it. After a few months you're just another old married woman.

"I am not trying to talk you out of anything, I just want you to know what you're getting into. I wish somebody had wised me up. If they had, I'd be single today. Think it over and good luck, no matter what.—Dottie"

Dear —: Many thanks to you for sending on Dottie's letter. Little did she realize that it would be read by millions.

Her story is not new to me. I receive such letters every day from dozens of disenchanted teen-age brides. I'm glad Dottie's experience changed your mind. I hope to heaven it changes some other young minds around the country.

Combined Planners To Test Committee

Fox-Wolf Regional Commissions To Coordinate Units Activities

A test of the newly formed Wolf-Fox Coordinating Committee will take place within two weeks, according to officials of Wolf River Basin and Fox Valley Regional Planning Commissions.

Three members of each unit have been appointed to the combined committee to study possibilities of coordination between the commissions.

"We look forward to a number of joint meetings with the Fox Valley commission," Gordon A. Bubolz, chairman of the Wolf River commission said today.

Wolf River group members were appointed to the coordinating committee Aug. 26. They are Fred Hoffman, Bear Creek, chairman of the commission's land use committee; Alfred Becher, Winnebago County Board supervisor and chairman of the commission's highways and transportation committee; and Stanley Perkins, Outagamie County Board supervisor and a member of the commission's land use committee.

Fox Valley Planners

Fox Valley planners serving on the committee are Laurel Heaney, Neenah; Norbert Rhinerson, Kaukauna; and Donald Colburn, Neenah. Bubolz and William E. Morris, Wolf River executive director, and Ralph Rusley and Eugene Franchetti, Fox Valley commission chairman and executive director respectively, will serve as ex officio members of the committee.

The meeting, not yet scheduled, will find committee members discussing a comprehensive water and sewer plan presented to the Outagamie County Board Monday by the Wolf River group.

Board supervisors decided to refer the matter to the coordinating committee for study. Officials of both commissions indicated a desire that the committee arrive at a conclusion before the October county board meeting.

The plan asks Outagamie County to provide $16,092 as its share of the 30-month study of water and sewer facilities in communities under 5,500 population eligible for Farmers Home Administration aid.

Designed to handle or explore the possibility of cooperative projects, the Wolf-Fox Coordinating Committee will probably meet within two weeks to discuss the proposed comprehensive plan, commission officials said.

Cancer Drive Exceeds Goal In Outagamie

Major Share of Funds
From House-to-House Calls in Appleton

The 1966-67 Outagamie County Cancer Crusade topped its goal, raising $22,064. The goal had been set at $21,935.

Announcement of the successful countywide campaign was made today by John E. Huff, Appleton, County Cancer Society chairman.

More than 200 volunteer workers participated in this year's drive which extended into every city, town and village in the county.

In Appleton, the neighborhood "house-to-house" campaign collected $7,629, a major share of the Crusade income.

Memorials Given

Donations in other cities and villages totaled $3,460, and residents of the various towns contributed $3,525.

Memorials given in the name of deceased friends and relatives totaled $2,375.

Other contribution categories included: small businesses, $1,181; special gifts division, $1,826; industry, $1,340; professional, $600; and other organizations, $126.

"Members of the Crusade committee express appreciation for the cooperation of all the volunteers and generous support of Outagamie County residents," Huff said.

Three Trips Each

Bus Scheduling Poses Problems

MENASHA — Five school buses, each making three runs or more, are carrying 824 Menasha public school children to school this year and overloading on some routes may mean the leasing of another bus if tighter scheduling cannot be arranged within the next week.

One 60 capacity bus is carrying as many as 90 elementary children, with most of the overload being picked up at the end of the route, Orvin Clark, business manager, told the board of education Monday night. "There are 824 riding the buses in the morning routes to high school, junior high school and elementary schools," he said, "and 856 ride the buses in the afternoon." He predicted that there may be as many as 50 to 75 more children riding buses when cold weather starts and the bicycles are put away.

Another problem which the board wants to correct is delayed schedules in the afternoon for kindergarten children at Fox Valley Cooperative. Clark will spend this week trying to tighten schedules and if no improvement can be made another bus will be leased to ease the crowding.

Mrs. Catherine Feit, R.N., city health officer, and Miss Geraldine Cooper, R.N. from the city health office, reported that vision, hearing and TB skin tests had been given to 2,360 elementary public school children in the 1965-66 school year. All testing was done by the nurses. Doctors saw 82 of the 130 children referred and 66 children were defective. In the TB skin testing one questionable reaction was found and there were no positive reactors.

Contracts were approved for Mrs. Kathleen Schlieve, third grade teacher at Banta School, and David Springhetti, drafting instructor at Menasha High School. This brings the full complement of teachers to 136 and 33 of this number are new teachers. Supt. M. J. Gegan reported that eight of the 33 were on the high school staff; 11 on the junior high school staff, and the balance on the elementary school staffs. The Menasha public schools now employ 180 persons on its administrative, professional and maintenance and hot lunch program staffs.

Roger Fliege, chairman of the properties committee, recommended six projects for board consideration and inclusion in the 1967 budget estimate now being prepared. They are: setting up parking area on the west side of the high school, that Jefferson school playground not be used for parking during the summer months, that a triangle on the southeast corner of the Clovis Grove school property be blacktopped for parking, that school name signs be placed on each school lawn, that an art bulletin board replace the bulletin board at Menasha High School and that the Nicolet School playground be resurfaced.

Raymond Pocquette called a closed meeting of the personnel committee at the conclusion of the board meeting.

The finance committee of the board had no report on budget. Frank Rosch said that work is progressing and that members will meet at 7 p.m. Wednesday with representatives from the finance committees of the city and town to consider further budget items.

Hard of Hearing Class Approved

Pre-Schoolers Will Attend in Appleton
Instead of Oshkosh

A pre-school class for the deaf and hard of hearing, to begin Sept. 19, was approved Monday by the Appleton Board of Education.

This class is presently being taught as a part of the Department of Deaf and Hard of Hearing in the Oshkosh School System but the seven enrollees are from Appleton or the nearby environment, according to Supt. William Spears.

"Any possible future enrollees, as presently identified, live in Appleton, Neenah, Menasha and Kaukauna, so we feel this move is a necessity," Spears said.

Roland Nock, principal at Morgan School, will be in charge of the program; Mrs. Margaret Ferris, a certified instructor for the deaf now teaching the class at Oshkosh, has been contracted on a part-time basis.

Present plans call for classes to be held at Huntley and Franklin Schools, but eventually the class will be housed in the Highlands Elementary School.

Intern Principal to Address Kiwanians

KIMBERLY — Chet Racine, intern principal at Kimberly High School, will describe the purpose and organization of the internship program which brought him to the school district at a Kiwanis Club luncheon at 6:15 p.m. Tuesday at the Darby Club.

Committee reports are to be made to James Allen at a board of directors meeting following the program. Named to the nominating committee were Robert Remmel, Kenneth Bobber, Darrell Larson, Lester Grones and Dale Dean.

eligible for water and sewer systems aid. Morris said there are 25 communities eligible in Outagamie County.

The coordinating committee which will review the proposal has three members from each commission plus both chairmen and executive directors as ex officio members. The committee was set up to study possible areas of overlap between the commissions.

Appropriate Funds

In other county board action supervisors voted to:

—Appropriate $2,052 to match state funds for Outagamie County wildlife and conservation programs.

—Provide county law enforcement officials with annual clothing allowances. The measure was approved after an amendment excluding the sheriff and undersheriff from receiving such funds was added.

—Put into use a series of rules and regulations governing the use of parks in the county.

—Transfer $1,500 from the general fund to the highway department for repairs on a road in the Town of Vandenberg.

Burglars Hit Three Firms

Money, Fuel Taken in Stephensville, Dale, Hortonville Break-ins

Outagamie County authorities are investigating overnight burglaries and thefts at three business places in the county.

About $35 in change was taken from Breitrick's Garage and Implement Co., Hortonville, after the building was entered by breaking glass in a back door.

Authorities said the money was taken from a cash box. A safe also was entered but it contained no money, police said.

A vending machine and a gasoline storage tank were looted at the Dale Gas and Oil Co., according to a report received about 7:45 a.m. today.

The third burglary was at the American Tool and Foundry, Stephensville, where a total of about $80 was missing from a vending machine and a desk that was pried open. The desk also was ransacked, according to county investigators.

WEA or AFL-CIO Union Session?

Refer Teacher Convention Question to City Attorney

MENASHA — The matter of teacher convention dates in the Menasha public schools remains unresolved, and it is possible that two fall convention dates for 1966-67 will give school children four free days instead of the traditional two.

Responding to a letter from Pres. Arlyn Plate, union head, wherein he attempted to make clear that the Oct. 6-7 convention dates for the Wisconsin Federation of Teachers (WFT) were not "extra days" the board moved Monday night to turn the entire matter over to City Attorney Richard J. Stefens for legal opinion.

Raymond Pocquette, chairman of the personnel committee of the board of education, stated that it now appears that the union members are asking the board for four convention dates, the Oct. 6-7 dates for the WFT convention in Milwaukee and Nov. 3-4 the convention dates of the Wisconsin Education Association (WEA) in Milwaukee, the group with which the Menasha Educational Association (MEA) is affiliated.

Until this year all Menasha teachers have attended their respective state conventions in Milwaukee on the same dates. For the first time this year, the WFT scheduled its own convention for Oct. 6-7, a change brought about by lack of accommodations for its growing membership.

The basis for the difficulty appears to be centered in timing. When the convention dates were discussed on Aug. 29, the board stated that it had approved two days in the school calendar for teachers conventions this fall Nov. 3-4, on Jan. 10, 1966. The picture was further complicated by the board's okay on that same date, establishing Oct. 6-7 as the convention dates. It is not now clear if the Aug.

action was intended to rescind the Jan. 10 action. Out of this "unclear" set of events the board reviewed its actions and intends with regard to convention dates.

Teachers belonging to the Menasha Teachers Union want to know if they will attend the WFT convention Oct. 6-7, teachers belonging to the Menasha Educational Association want to know if they will attend the WEA convention Nov. 3-4 and the board wants to know if they are expected to release four days for convention instead of the customary two days.

Letter Read

The union clarifies its position by stating there need be no extra days involved in regard to the fall conventions and that any attempted change on the board in vacation periods or other dates would constitute a contract violation.

Auto Company Appoints New Division Head

American Motors Unhappy With Low
Sales Last Year

DETROIT (AP) — American Motors Corp. today announced a major change in top management with Executive Vice President International Roy D. Chapin Jr. taking over responsibility for the company's automotive division.

AMC President Roy Abernethy said the move, plus a lesser change, had been contemplated long before Detroit Industrialist Robert B. Evans moved onto the scene as board chairman of AMC in June.

"These changes, particularly the one involving Roy Chapin, were effected so I would have more time to devote to key operations, primarily our sales," Abernethy said.

Sales Fall Short

He conceded sales "have not been what we wanted them to be or what we want them to be."

Chapin, 50, a close personal friend of Evans and Henry Ford II, who also live in Detroit's swanky suburb of Grosse Pointe, is a second generation automotive man. His father, the late Roy Sr., was president of the Hudson Motor Car Co. which merged with Nash in 1954 to form American Motors.

American Motors, which had its sales troubles in the 1966 model year, lost approximately $4.4 million in the first nine months of its fiscal year ending Sept. 30. It went into the red at a time when General Motors, Ford and Chrysler were reporting huge profits.

There have been reports in recent days that AMC, described by Abernethy as the 63rd largest industrial corporation in the United States, would need help from the Small Business Administration.

Abernethy would say only that the firm would be happy to bid for any additional business it could get under the SBA program.

Garry and Gang Save Sunday TV, Says Jingo

Other New Shows Only Reach Heights Of Mediocrity, Decides This Reviewer

BY JINGO

The Moore merrier might well be the motto of America's television viewers, following the premiere of Garry's new variety series on Sunday night. Unfortunately, the rest of the weekend debuts were far from auspicious, as a show-by-show rundown will demonstrate:

The Garry Moore Show — After a two-season vacation, Moore and sidekick Durdard Kirby are back with a promising entry for CBS. Moore should provide "Bonanza" with its toughest competition to date, but whether the comedy-variety series can endure following "Ed Sullivan Show" and preceding "Andy Williams" is a serious improbability.

Moore's skills are generally imaginative and funny and judging from the opening show, the supporting cast is strong. Jackie Vernon, John Byner, Ron Carey, Pete Barbutti, Christine Nelson and Lily Tomlin (all but Miss Nelson regulars) provided the familiar light touch long associated with Moore.

Garry has been known as a skilled creator of offbeat routines and the first show demonstrated that his vacation cost him nothing in effectiveness. Highlights were a tribute to The American Chicken and funny film clips shown while Frank Sinatra's "Strangers in the Night" played.

Again, Moore has a very good show, but the chances of the TV public watching three straight variety shows is small. It is likely, the habits will include Sullivan, then "Bonanza" and finally Williams. And that leaves poor Garry out in the cold.

Shane — It's a shame about "Shane".

A good movie, directed by George Stevens and starring Alan Ladd and Jean Arthur (who has her own show this year), has been mediocrized into just another saddle-tramp epic about the hired man, the schoolmarm and the five-minutes-before-closing showdown.

In the opening episode the aforementioned schoolmarm arrived to teach the children of "those sodbusters down in the valley." Threatening to turn her schoolhouse into a graveyard, was the dastardly Riker (played in capable fashion by Bert Freed), who had an animus against both the sodbusters and the general idea of education.

Saving the school, and the show, was the task of newcomer David Carradine (son of the renowned John) in the title role of the gun-hand hired man. Young Carradine may some day be a fine actor, but at the moment he lacks the strength to swing Alan Ladd's spurs.

"Shane" isn't really bad. Its sin is that it isn't really good. One of the great Western classics of the screen deserved better of the masters of the TV serial mills.

Hey, Landlord! — Described as "light comedy", this sudden collection of clichés about swinging bachelors in Manhattan stars Will Hutchins, as the youthful and "naive" owner of an apartment house in Manhattan, and Sandy Baron as his "sophisticated" roommate.

In the first episode, Will, infatuated with the girl in a men's shirt ad, sought out the model and was disillusioned by the fact that she was a professional businesswoman. Other episodes can be expected to develop similar light-hearted true-to-life situations.

A sample of the rich lode of wit contained in this show: Sandy advised Will to marry his poster girl and "raise confetti."

As the initial offering of the newly-organized television firm of Mirisch-Rich, "Hey, Landlord!" augurs less than well for future developments from this source. Sheldon Leonard, who directed the show, had best hie himself back to Hong Kong and his highly-respected "I Spy."

The titles were, however, clever. Too bad what followed was anticlimactic.

It's About Time — "When you pass the speed of light," explains Astronaut Frank Aletter to Astronaut Jack Mullaney as they show their heels to a prehistoric beast, "you enter the dimension of time."

Thus do Aletter and Mullaney discover that their descending capsule has broken, if not the time barrier, then most certainly the trash barrier. But not for long — if Sunday's opening show was any example of what is to come.

Created by Sherwood Schwartz, previously renowned for "Gilligan's Island", this witless exercise in slapstick takes our less than dynamic duo into a series of caves occupied by a colony of club-waving, hair-pulling stone-age men and women (who unaccountably speak modern English, or the Hollywood variant thereof).

Heading the pack of paleolithic hillbillies they find Imogene Coca, Joe E. Ross, Mike Mazurki and others fortunate enough to be unrecognizable in their bearskin tunics and fright wigs.

The level of the "dialogue" may be gauged from one sample:

"Their feelings are very caloused," remarks one Astronaut as a cave woman drags his woman past by the hair.

"They must be caloused all over," rejoins his companion. There's more of the same — much more.

Electric Control Box Stolen From Vehicle

LITTLE CHUTE — Police are investigating the theft of a control box for an automatic opening garage door taken from the car of Lester Luedtke, 214

Sarah St., Kaukauna.

Luedtke indicated the control was taken sometime between 6:30 and 10:30 p.m. Saturday while his auto was parked near the bowling lanes on Vandenberg Street. Value of the control was listed at $20.

Lots of Bark For Girl From U.N.C.L.E.

BY TV SCOUT

6:30-7:30 Channels 4-5 — BEST BET — The Girl From U.N.C.L.E., a spinoff of the popular The Man from U.N.C.L.E., should amuse viewers who haven't had enough of razzle-dazzle spy adventures. The heroine is Stefanie Powers, wide-eyed and long-haired, who plays April Dancer, an agile beauty — a contemporary who combines charm and wit to skirt the menacing THRUSH. Her partner, Mark Slate, is played by Noel Harrison (Rex's son), also a charmer — a modern English lad with intuitive ability. Only U.N.C.L.E. regular from the "old" series is Leo G. Carroll as Mr. Waverly. The first assignment, "The Doggone Affair," is fleeced with clichés but nevertheless serviceable. It has April and Mark in Greece totting a dachshund whose fleas are an antidote for a THRUSH gas. They are hampered by THRUSHMEN in leather jerkins and knee-length socks and especially Kirt Kasznar who calls himself Apollo. 6:30-7:30 PREMIERE

9-10 Channels 2-12 — Young Mr. Eisenhower is a thoughtful documentary which gently tours the ex-President's youth via reminiscences by the 75-year-old general and candid photographs from his family album. We see him in Abilene, Kan., on the lawn of his boyhood home with Harry Reasoner and later in a memorable ride around West Point where he recalls his first day as a cadet. Ike chats mostly about chopping wood as a boy, playing football and obeying orders from his firm but understanding parents. Towards the end he is more philosophical and a little bit troubled that youth of today are missing the "virtues" of when America was young.

6:30-7:30 (ABC) Channels 11-6-9 — Combat! rolls back for its fifth season with new realistic footage, the first in color, which vividly describes the sorrows and plaintive joys of World War II. It's used to good advantage for "The Gun," a sweaty drama, with guest star Warren Stevens as a tank sergeant bent on destroying a captured German gun which has killed three of his comrades. SEASON PREMIERE

6:30-7:30 (CBS) Channels 2-7-12 — What's new pussycat with Dakarti? Unfortunately nothing to make you meow. It's still a children's zoo, with plots that have little bite. Clarence, the cross-eyed lion, is still in center ring. The first new episode has you to believe he has had a case of amnesia (television's handiest ailment) and gone wild. Unaware of his plight, Cheryl Miller chases him into the jungle and soon lands in a poacher's pit with a healthy, growling leopard. SEASON PREMIERE

7:30-8 (NBC) Channels 4-5 — Occasional Wife stretches its comedy to the breaking point. Viewers are enticed with the old joke: Why buy the cow when you can get the milk for free? Michael Callan is a determined bachelor who works for the Brahms Baby Food Company who won't let boss nor mom nag him into marriage. Instead, he prompts Patricia Harty to pretend to be his wife. He will pay for her upstairs apartment so she can study art. PREMIERE

7:30-8:30 (CBS) Channels 2-7-12 — The Red Skelton Show safely returns for its 14th season with its formidable red-headed clown still busy as Freddie the Freeloader. In the main sketch he tackles wits with guest Gig Young at a class reunion and there's some nonsense about an instant-sleep mattress. In the Silent Spot, Red is a would-be groom exasperated with a rented tux. There's also a musical interlude: Johnny Rivers wails his hits, "Secret Agent Man" and "The Poor Side of Town." SEASON PREMIERE

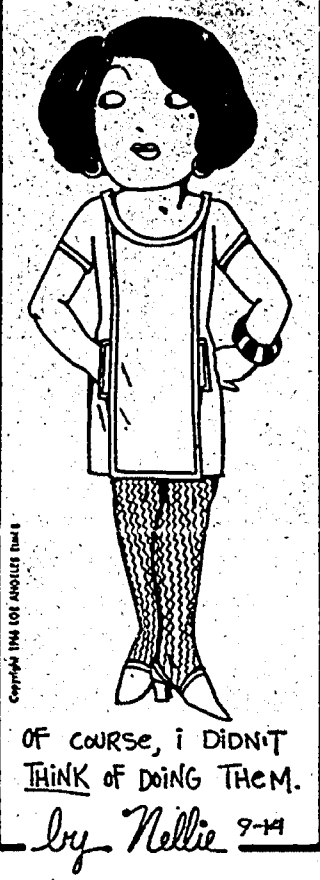

8-8:30 (ABC) Channels 11-6-9 — The Pruitts of Southampton keeps its star, Phyllis Diller, busy singing, "The Yanks are Coming," as she milks a cow. It also introduces a new regular, Gypsy Rose Lee, the former burlesque queen. Miss Lee is now a throaty society matron and a constant pain for her neighbor Miss Diller. This time she is agast over the cow, which wanders in and out of the Pruitt's kitchen.

8:30-9 (ABC) Channels 11-6-9 — Love on a Rooftop's second chapter has its young newbies, Judy Carne and Peter Deuel, involved with "117 Ways to Cook Hamburger." It seems Judy has spent the good money buying 102 books for nine dollars. There's some spy-bickering between the tooth (at one point Judy almost swallows her toothbrush) until the plot bogs down with a contrived money making scheme which turns their home into a tourist trap.

8:30-9 (CBS) Channels 2-12 — Petticoat Junction, the amiable but squeaky comedy series, begins its fourth season with a new Billie Jo. Meredith MacRae

Lady Chatter

MY DAUGHTER DOES THINGS I WOULDN'T HAVE THOUGHT OF DOING WHEN I WAS HER AGE

(daughter of Gordon and Sheila) has taken over the role with ease. She is freely drawn into Bea Benederet's concern over a pair of white-haired lovers bent on becoming Mr. and Mrs. over their children's outcries. PREMIERE

9-10 (ABC) Channels 11-6-9 — The Fugitive is off and running for its fifth year. "The Last Oasis" has hero David Janssen on the lam in the Southwest's Indian country. Sure enough he is wounded (thick of all the scars he must have by now!) by a deputy and sure enough he finds a pretty girl to give him refuge. SEASON PREMIERE

Market Rise Continues

LBJ's Program On Anti-Inflation Cited for Rally

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market rally continued early this afternoon as the sun shone on a cheerier Wall Street.

Brokers and analysts were agreed that investors were heartened by President Johnson's program for curbing inflation and for lowering interest rates. Even some of the chronic bears who still have a pessimistic view for the long run urged their clients to climb aboard a traders' bandwagon for a ride which one of them said "could carry 50 to 80 points."

Blue chips and glamor stocks advanced together in a broad advance with the averages—at their best—showing a gain of about half as much as the outsize gain of Monday, the best since June 1965.

Several Gains

Gains of fractions to a point or better were scored by aerospace stocks, electronics, chemicals, utilities and rubbers.

A number of issues were clipped by quick profit taking, slowing the upward drive around mid-session.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up 1.8 at 288.2 with industrials up 2.8, rails up .3 and utilities up 1.5.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was ahead 6.63 at 797.27.

A jump of 3 1/2 by Du Pont gave the stock averages a husky boost. Also helpful to these indicators were gains of about a point by General Motors and Goodyear and a 2-point hop by United Aircraft.

Eastman Kodak clipped more than a point from the 6 1/2-point advance it made Monday. Xerox fell 3 1/2 and Polaroid 1.

Prices advanced in moderate trading on the American Stock Exchange.

Judge Revokes License 90 Days for 90 m.p.h.

WAUPACA — John C. Lambrecht, 17, 1703 Doemel St., Oshkosh, pleaded guilty to speeding 90 miles per hour in a 55 m.p.h. zone and his driver's license was revoked for 90 days, Monday when he appeared before Municipal Justice George Whalen. Lambrecht also was ordered to pay court costs of $8.25.

He was arrested by county police, Sept. 4, on U.S. 10, east of Waupaca.

Personal Service . . . Our Most Important Product

Since our firm was founded in 1939, it has been our policy to provide the most careful personal attention to the investment requirements of each of our clients.

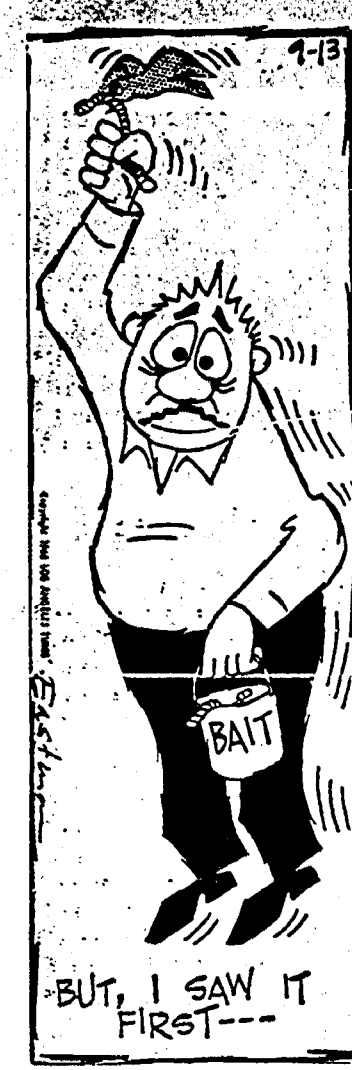

Our growth in Milwaukee and Wisconsin reflects, we believe, the satisfaction our clients have felt in doing business with us.

Recently, we became a member firm of the New York Stock Exchange . . . the most recent Wisconsin based brokerage house to take such a step. We are not the largest nor the oldest . . . but we continue to consider personal service our most important product.

We invite you to put us to the test.

'Big Button' Wall Plaque; How to Make One Yourself

BY CAPPY DICK

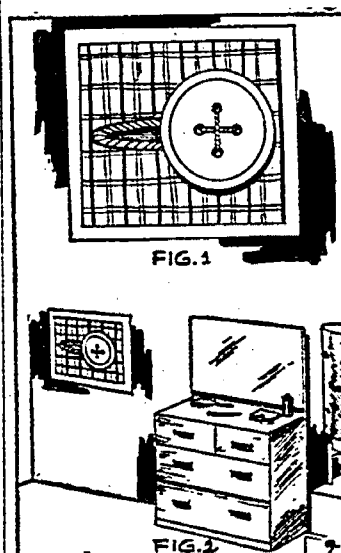

The "Big Button" is a wall plaque any boy or girl can make to use as a decoration in his or her room. It's formed of cardboard, cloth, string and a paper plaque looks like a huge button attached to a piece of fabric containing a big buttonhole.

Start by cutting a panel of cardboard three feet long. Glue a piece of colorful fabric to it. Cover the edges of the cardboard with mending tape of a contrasting color.

Make four holes through a paper plate and corresponding holes through the cardboard. Use dark-colored string to fasten this plate to the fabric-covered board (rim side of the plate facing you) as though it were a button.

Draw a buttonhole on the fabric, using dark-colored crayon.

This completes the plaque, except for attaching a small handle.

Paper Plate

ger to its back so you can hang it on the wall (Figure 2) where it will attract attention as an example of a new art form.

Lesson in English

BY W. L. GORDON

Words Often Misused: Do not say, "There was rain enough that the ground was saturated." Say, "There was enough rain to saturate the ground."

Often Mispronounced: Nuncio. Pronounce nun-shi-oh, accent first syllable.

Often Misspelled: "Flammable" is preferred to "inflammable," because of the possible interpretation of the prefix "in" as a negative.

Synonyms: Querulous, peevish, squeamish, fastidious, quarrelsome, complaining, whining.

Word Study: "Use a word three times and it is yours." Let us increase our vocabulary by mastering one word each day.

Today's Word: Eremitic: solitary; living alone, as a hermit or eremite. (Pronounce ehr-ee-mit-tick, accent third syllable.)

"His existence at that frontier post was an eremitic one."

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE

— Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A K R

L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints.

Each day the code letters are different.

Louise's 191 game was the circuit's only other honor score. Jane McGoe exploded a 551 trio to highlight the Thursday Women's League at Kaukauna's Bowling Bar. Martha DeBruin rolled a 209 game on the way to a 523 finish. Also at 523 was Shirley Hurst.

Other honor scores included Annie Kersten 201, Ione Ashauer 205, Lorraine Farrell 506 and Dolores Mollen 515.

Margie Caver's 501 series and a 192 game by Anne Moran were the only honor scores in the Sabre Sisters loop.

Alice Worden's 191 and 508 were the only honor tallies in the South Side Ladies League at the 41 Bowl.

Earl Mentzel Posts 579 Set

Earl Mentzel fashioned a 226 game on the way to a 579 finish to set the pace in the Beer Couples League at the 41 Bowl.

Buzz Laux and Ed Schultz shared the runnerup laurels with 574 sets.

Shirley Rasmussen, with a 201 game, and Debbie Eastman, with marks of 192 and 513, divided honors in the Comic Couples circuit at Hahn's Lanes. Alice Bobber's 197 solo was the only other honor mark.

Shirley Betters posted marks of 195 and 508 and Gordon Breier totaled 572 to share laurels in the Kimberly Fish Couples loop. Other honor scores were Gerry Albers' 193, Nancy Albers' 192 and Emil Betters' 562.

Rev. Reinkober Hits Ace

Hadley Wins Club Title; Kriek, Warobick Shine

A hole-in-1 by the Rev. Robert Reinkober, of the Oshkosh Apostolate, and 2-under par 69s by Lou Warobick and Gary Kriek were among the highlights of the Fox Cities-area golf scene over the weekend.

Father Reinkober, a Chilton native, dropped his 7-iron teeshot on Ridgeway Country Club's 130-yard 17th hole. The ace was the fifth of the season at Ridgeway.

Warobick, Reid Municipal pro, and Kriek turned in identical cards of 34 and 35 on the Muni's par 35-36 layout. Syl Bayer was close behind with a 1-under par 70 on nines of 33 and 37.

Other Muni honor cards Paul NeNoble's personal all-time low of 72, Dennis Babb's 73, Bob Duszak's 76, Tom Lemons' 79, Dave DeGuire's 79 and Angus McIntyre's 79.

Tom Hadley authored a 6-3 victory over Herb Stinski Sr. to win the Ridgeway Country Club championship.

Elmer Selig, the Northeastern Wisconsin Golf Association Senior champion, led the scoring parade at Ridgeway with a 1-over par 73. Ed Verbeck was next in line with 75 and 78.

Other RCC honor cards were Bill Daniels' 78, Dick Spangenberg's 76, Tom Grodrich's 76 and 78 by Doug Pagel and Joe Sues.

Bob Barlament led the way at the Riverview Country Club with a 3-over par 73. Barlament also toured the 9-hole tract in 1-over par 36. Harry Brown posted a 77 and Bill Mills totaled 79.

Brown's team in the Men's Twilight League remained atop the standings, though its margin was sliced to four points over the runnerup team of John Gall. Brown has 761 points.

Riverview's Shotgun Tournament over the weekend was won by Vince Derscheid and Bernie Ziven with a twosome best-ball card of 133. John Gall and Bill Mills were next with 137, while Harley Splitt and Ralph Buesing combined for third with 138.

Over 50 golfers, including some of the area's top names, have entered the Dual County Golf Tournament at Winagamie's challenging acreage this weekend.

Entries for the 36-hole tourney (Saturday and Sunday) can be obtained at Winagamie or at other area courses in the pro shop.

Driver Killed, 23 Fans Injured in Racing Mishap

BERLIN (AP) — One driver was killed and 23 spectators injured in a mishap during a formula 3 auto race in the Czechoslovakia city of Sokolov, the official East German news agency ADN reported Monday.

The news agency said the accident occurred Sunday when driver Jan Brazda skidded on a curve and slammed into a crowd of spectators.

Brazda, whose nationality was not mentioned, was killed.

Pete Thomas Named Aide At Lawrence

Pete Thomas, former Lawrence University football, wrestling and baseball star, has been named assistant freshman football coach at Lawrence, according to Athletic Director Bernie Heseltin.

Thomas, 25, was a 1962 graduate of Lawrence and is a native of Northbrook, Ill.

While at Lawrence Thomas earned nine letters in the three sports, was voted most valuable football lineman in his senior year, won the Midwest Conference 191-pound wrestling championship and was an all-conference baseball player. He was selected as the Iden Charles Champion Cup winner in 1962.

Following graduation, Thomas served in the Air Force for four years and was stationed in Germany. Married to the former Pat Webb, also a 1962 Lawrence grad, the Thomases have a 2-year-old son.

Clifford Ann Creed placed second, shooting a 71 for a 291 total, one stroke ahead of Sandra Haynie of Fort Worth, Tex. Miss Wright won $1,500 in first place money.

Mrs. Brandt Gets Ace at Municipal

Mrs. Ralph Brandt, Appleton, scored a hole-in-one while golfing at Reid Municipal course Saturday afternoon.

Mrs. Brandt used a 5-wood and dropped her tee shot on the No. 6 hole, 130 yards. Her husband and another couple were in the foursome.

It was the seventh ace of the season at Muni and the fourth by a woman.

SPORT FANS!

I BET YOU DIDN'T KNOW

By John Behnke

Here's one of the most fantastic records ever made by any football team... It was made by the Army team of 1945 that featured those two greats, Doc Blanchard and Glenn Davis... Army set an all-time record that year by AVERAGING 7.9 yards per play!... Imagine a team averaging almost 8 yards every time they put the ball in play... That's a record that may stand for a long, long time.

Here's one I bet you didn't know about golf... During the first few hundred years of golf, no one played the game with a golf tee... The golf tee wasn't invented until 1920... And it wasn't invented by a golf pro, but rather by a dentist in South Orange, N.J., William Lowell... He patented the first golf tee in 1920 and even then it took a few years till it was accepted by all golfers.

It's surprising that baseball teams don't try to steal bases more often... Did you know that figures from just about every year show that an attempted steal works far more often than not... For instance, last season in the majors 2233 stolen bases were tried... 1449 were successful, and only 784 attempts failed.

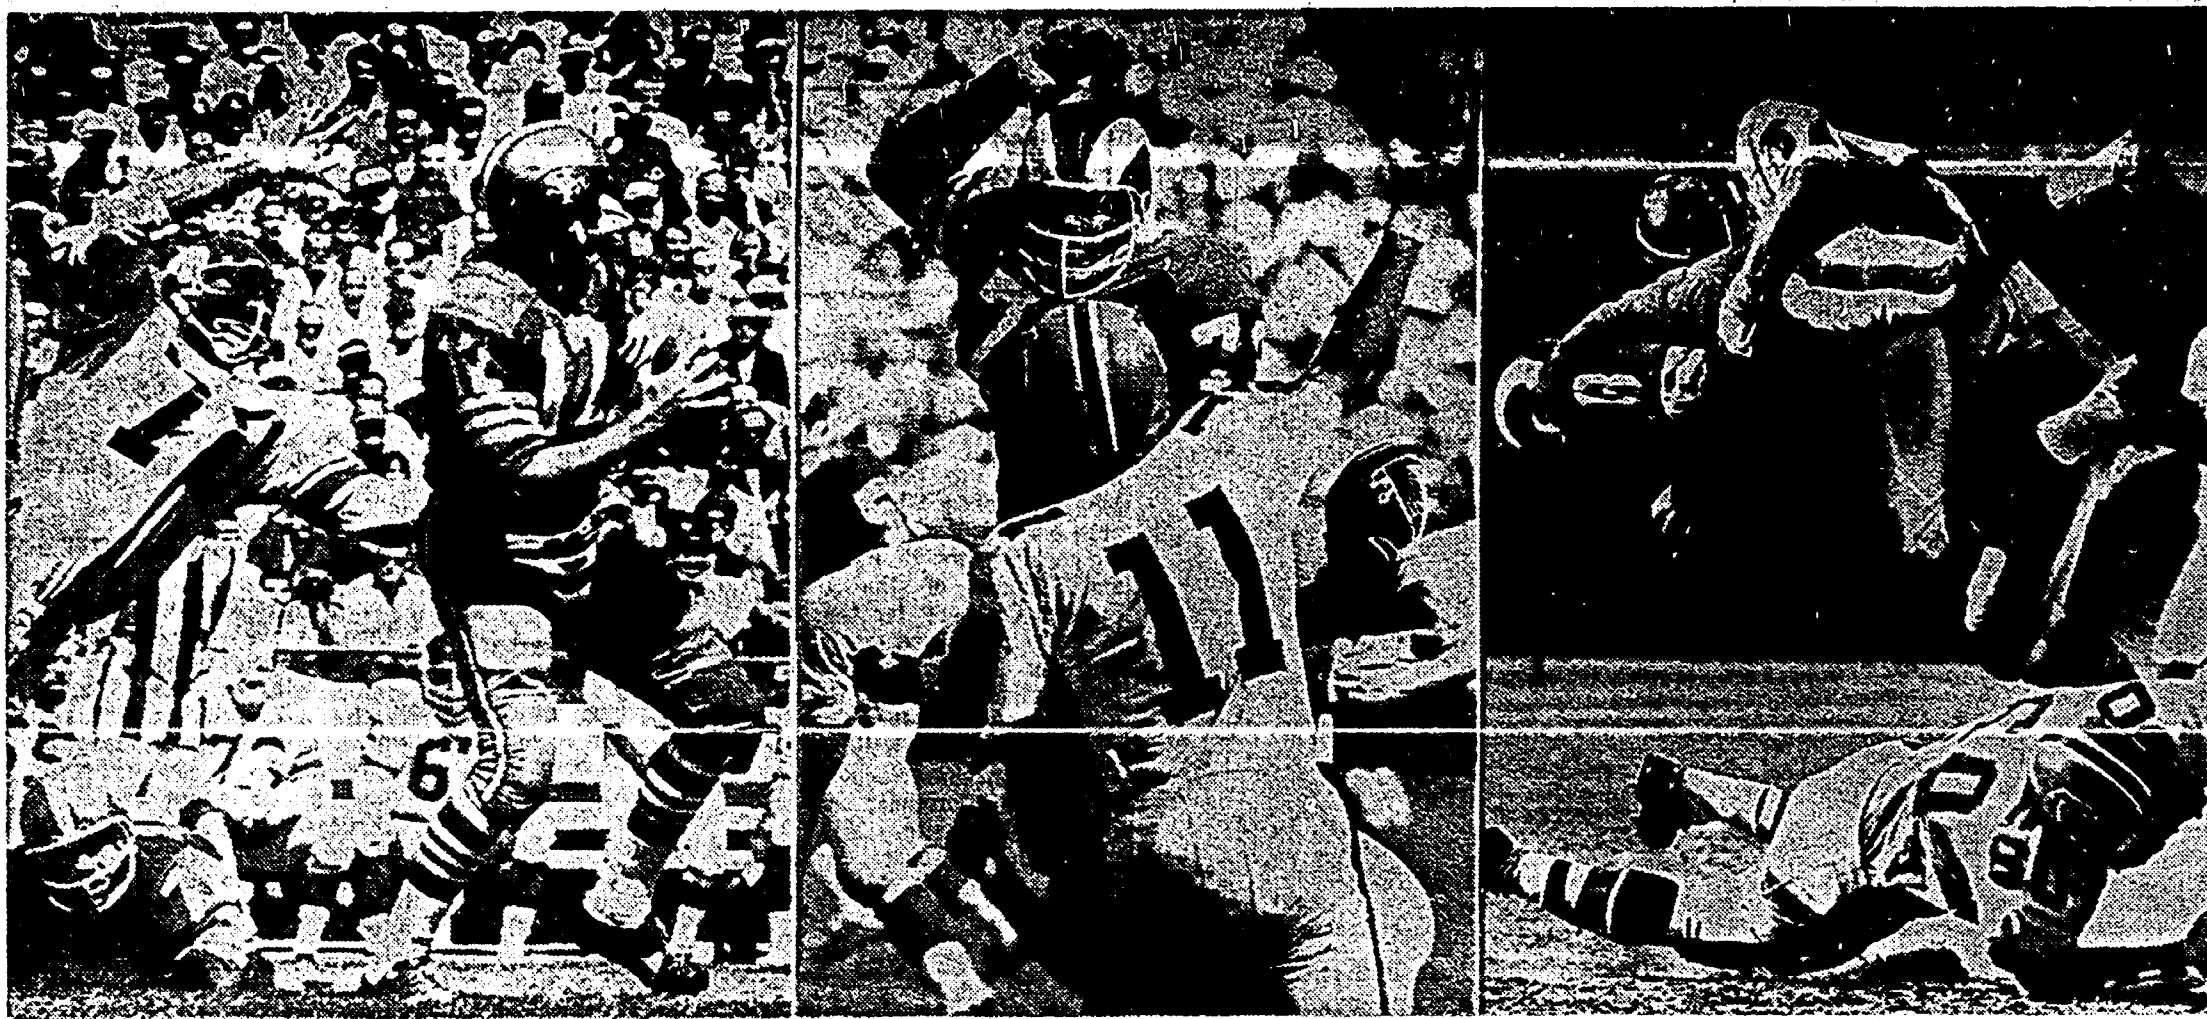

I bet you didn't know... you can outfit your bowling team with personalized Bol-Slox which are designed to coordinate with many attractive color combinations. $12.95. Order now.

Dodger Relief Aces Check Mets, 3 to 2

Perranoski, Regan Preserve Win; Angels' Fregosi Rips Orioles, 6-5

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writers
The Black Maxers have dived underground, but the Blue Berets are soaring higher and higher.
Two members of the Blue Berets, relief pitchers Ron Perranoski and Phil Regan, wiped out the New York Mets Monday night and helped the Los Angeles Dodgers to their fifth straight victory, a 3-2 decision.
The triumph increased the Dodgers' National League lead to 1½ games over second-place Pittsburgh and 2½ over third-place San Francisco, both idle. In the only other game, California edged American League leading Baltimore 6-5.
The Black Maxers are — were possibly may be more accurate — a group of Pittsburgh Pirates whose viewing of the film, The Blue Max, triggered post-victory clubhouse antics that involved such wearing apparel as imitative German medals, World War I flying helmets and floppy hats.
Toned Down By Criticism
The Maxers, however, toned down their victory celebrations after the antics were criticized. The Blue Berets, on the other hand, carry out their antics on the field, and the only criticism they get is from the teams they beat.
The Berets, the Dodgers' brilliant relief corps that received the name because of the team's blue hats, merely sit out in the bullpen, wait until a Dodger pitcher gets trapped in the middle of enemy fire, then come in and snuff out the threat.
Regan, whose 13 victories and 16 saves make him the best Beret, even wrote a fight song for the group, a parody of the song of the Green Berets, a branch of the U.S. Army now fighting in Viet Nam.
"These are the men of the Blue Beret," Regan wrote, "waiting there for Alston's call; they are ready to give their all, Fighting Giants and the Reds, Day and night until they're dead... Fans will come and they will cheer. They will watch and then they'll say, 'These are the men of the Blue Beret.'"
Got Call Monday
Perranoski and Regan got the call Monday night with the Dodgers trailing 2-1. Perranoski struck out the first six men he faced, tying a league record for relievers, then blanked the Mets for two more innings, as Los Angeles grabbed a 3-2 lead.
When the left-hander gave up a leadoff single to Ken Boyer in the ninth, Manager Walter Alston called on Regan. The right-hander got pinch hitter Chuck Hiller to force Boyer at second, then ended the game by inducing Cleon Jones to ground into a double play.
Perranoski earned the victory, the third for Dodger relief-ers in the five-game winning streak that has shot the Dodgers from third place, 1½ games out to first place, 1½ games ahead. The Dodgers play the Mets again tonight while Pittsburgh is at Houston and San Francisco hosts Philadelphia.

Score Twice In Fifth
Los Angeles won Monday night with two runs in the fifth.

Bruhn Stages Secret Practice Sessions at UW

State Salesman
Caught Snooping
At Iowa State Drill

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Wisconsin football coach Milt Bruhn wrapped his Badgers in a curtain of secrecy Monday after denying that Wisconsin had stooped to spying against upcoming opponent Iowa State.
"I'm not going to get into it," said Bruhn of the snooping charge made by Iowa State Coach Clay Stapleton. "I know nothing about anyone spying down there, but I'm having closed sessions this week."
Did he have reason to believe that Iowa State may have had someone watching Saturday when the Badgers held their final preseason scrimmage?
"I'm not going to say," Bruhn said. He even refused to say when he decided on secret practices closed even to the press.
"That doesn't make any difference," he said. "That's my prerogative."
"I just feel that this week is a good spot to have secret practice," he said.
Stapleton charged that a salesman from River Falls, Wis., was spotted on a roof overlooking the Cyclones' practice field last week.
"The notes we confiscated from him made it very obvious what he was doing there," Stapleton said.
Bruhn said he had nothing to do with sending anyone to Iowa State to get a preview of the Cyclones — Wisconsin's opponent Saturday.
"And I talked to my assistant coaches and none of them did either," Bruhn said.
Bruhn acknowledged that he once met the man — identified as a salesman.
"He wanted to hook on with us," said Bruhn. "But we turned him down. I haven't talked to him since, and we're not going to see him in any circumstances before that game."

Packers' Willie Davis Not One to Rest on His Laurels

Screen Pass to Taylor Called Offensive Key

Packers Start
Preparations for Cleveland Game

Post-Crescent News Service
GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) — Quick now. What play started the Packers on the way to victory over the Colts — even though they didn't score on said play?
Answer: The perfectly executed 21-yard screen pass from Bart Starr to Jim Taylor early in the second quarter — after the Colts had taken a 3-0 lead.
"We controlled the ball from then on," Coach Vince Lombardi noted today, following a close study of the game films with members of his staff. That play was one of five straight first downs the Packers pieced together. It carried them to the Colt 8 and set the stage for the blocking of a Don Chandler field goal.
While the drive didn't produce points, it was a shot in the arm for the offense, which scored a TD and field goal the next two times it had the ball.
"We had some difficulty moving the ball in the first quarter," Vince conceded. "But it's not easy when your backs are to the goal line."
Dave Lee's punt that dropped on the five and a 6-yard loss for Paul Hornung on a left end run put the Bays in that proverbial hole twice in the first quarter.
Make Big Plays
The pictures prompted Lombardi to reiterate what he said after the game — that "we played a good game on offense and defense."
"I could list everybody on defense — and offense, too — as playing well, but those two boys made the big plays. They were at the right place at the right time," Vince said.
The coach was referring, of course, to Lee Roy Caffey and Bob Jeter, who returned John Unitas passes for two touchdowns in the short space of one

Still Gets 'Butterflies' Even After Eight Campaigns in NFL

By KEN HARTNETT
GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) — All-pro defensive end Willie Davis of the Green Bay Packers isn't one to rest on his laurels. After eight seasons in the National Football League, he still can't sleep before a big game.
"I've never gone into a league game without butterflies and I'd be kidding you if I told you that I did," said the majestic Davis — probably the one packer that Coach Vince Lombardi couldn't afford to lose.
"To tell the truth I barely slept at all the night before the Baltimore game. I was still awake at 3 a.m.," said the 32-year-old Davis — a man even harder on himself than he is on the opposition.
Relentless Pressure
The self-imposed pressure has been relentless since Davis joined the NFL with the Cleveland Browns.
"If you're fortunate enough to make a contribution to your team and at the same time win some recognition in the league, then you have reached a point where it is a matter of pride that everytime you are on the field, you feel you have to play the caliber of football you're expected to play," Davis said.
"I would hate to feel that I'm supposed to be a player of a certain caliber and then not be able to go out and prove it."
The need to prove himself was keenly felt before Saturday night's NFL opener with the Colts. Baltimore's massive and quick Jim Parker had been switched from guard to tackle

Falcon Claim Disputed by Rams' Allen

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Los Angeles Rams Coach George Allen has dismissed suggestions that an Atlanta castoff paced along tips to the Rams prior to Sunday's 19-14 win over the Atlanta Falcons.
Allen said that Robert Jencks, a recently cut Falcon kicker, visited Atlanta's Cheney Field where the Rams were practicing last Thursday, and "asked for a tryout at light end, having heard that Marlin McKeever was hurt."
Allen said Jencks "mentioned little things about the Falcons, odds and ends." But the coach added, "It's ridiculous to think anything he said could help our team. In fact, stuff like this can hurt you."
Allen said he told Falcon Coach Norb Hecker about the incident. "I told him exactly what happened and what Jencks said," Allen said.
Countering statements in Atlanta that the former Falcon passed information to the Rams, Allen said it was possible that a Ram castoff, Joe Szczepko, a defensive tackle now with Atlanta, might have discussed Ram strategies.

Vikings' Roberts Calls Defense Bright Spot Of Initial Scrimmage

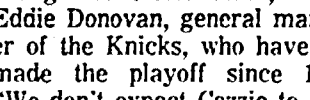

"Our running game looked good and the defense was very sharp," commented Lawrence University head football coach Ron Roberts as he assessed the team's first full-scale scrimmage of the current series of drills.
The Vikings ripped through an intra-squad scrimmage Saturday afternoon and will continue 2-a-day drills this week in preparation for the Midwest Conference opener Sept. 24 when highly-rated Carleton College invades the Lawrence Box.
"We tried many things during the scrimmage," Roberts said, "as we were trying to find the right spot for some players. Our ball carriers were able to break loose for some nice gains, but overall, the defense was the bright spot."
Roberts has his entire defensive unit back from last season with the exception of two men. This unit ranked second in the Midwest Conference last season and allowed foes an average of only 211 yards per game, overall.
"Part of the problem with our offense and mainly the passing game, was the fact that we were running against our first string defense and they do not give up yardage easily," the Lawrence mentor offered.
Roberts did not single out any players after the intra-squad drill. "We shifted personnel around so much it would not be fair to praise any individuals for any ailment or another," he said Monday. "And the week's rest should take care of them."
The 49ers opened the regular National Football League season last Sunday with a 20-20 tie against the Minnesota Vikings after losing their five exhibition games. Every NFL team gets one bye this season and the 49ers' comes Sunday.
"Mistakes are still hurting us," Christiansen said. "By mistakes I mean missed assignments, such as blocking the wrong man. Last year we had a minimum of these mental mistakes, but we've had far too many this season."

Christiansen, of 49ers, Welcome Bye This Weekend

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The rest and relaxation the San Francisco 49ers get this weekend comes at the right time for Head Coach Jack Christiansen.
"We have 10 or 15 people with one ailment or another," he said Monday. "And the week's rest should take care of them."

Russell Accepts Knick Terms

By BEN OLAN
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Knicks, doormats of the National Basketball Association the past seven years, may have unlocked the door to the playoffs with the acquisition of Cazzie Russell.
Y., today. He hasn't signed, but a club spokesman said this was a mere formality.
"We will start him off in the guard position," said Donovan. "We're not looking for him to take us out of the doldrums singlehandedly. But we've got a good nucleus now with Willis Reed, Walt Bellamy, Dave Stallworth, Howard Komives and Dick Van Arsdale."
The Knicks, who made Russell their No. 1 selection in the NBA draft, outbid the Harlem Globetrotters, who also were after the services of the 22-year-old Russell.
"I'm no comedian," the newest Knick said. "I was seriously considering playing for the Trotters, but I'm going to enjoy the brand of ball they play in the NBA, and I'm looking forward to playing against Oscar Robertson, Bill Russell and Sam Jones."
Surpasses Chamberlain
Cazzie's contract with the Knicks apparently surpasses what Will Chamberlain, Robertson and the Boston Celtics' Russell received when they broke into professional basketball.
Chamberlain and Russell both were reported to have received one-year $100,000 contracts last season and Robertson said recently that he is asking $100,000 this season.
The nation's third-leading scorer with 800 points and a 30.8 average last season, Cazzie finished his three-year career at Michigan with 2,164 points, the highest total in Big Ten history and the 13th highest in history among major college scorers.

Cazzie Russell
Russell, 1965's college basketball player of the year.
"We've now got a real good, young basketball team," said Eddie Donovan, general manager of the Knicks, who have not made the playoff since 1959.
"We don't expect Cazzie to tear up the league, but we have a lot of hope for him."
The Knicks announced Monday that the former Michigan star had come to terms. Neither the amount nor the length of the contract was disclosed, but it was reported that the 6-foot-3½, two-time All-America will receive more than $200,000 spread over a long term contract.
To Report Today
Russell was scheduled to report to the Knicks' training camp at Cornwall-on-Hudson, N.

Follow Doctor's Advice When Using Cortisone

BY JOSEPH MOLNER, M. D.
Dear Dr. Molner: I am taking cortisone for arthritis and have been told it has many dangerous side effects. I am afraid to take it for any length of time but my condition becomes very painful, almost unbearable. Please explain its effects and if it is safe to take it for prolonged periods. — Mrs. Q. R.

A few years ago patients rarely thought or asked about side effects. They took for granted — correctly enough — that the doctor should watch for side effects and withdraw the medicine or take such other action if necessary. The public interest in side effects zoomed suddenly after the tragic thalidomide experience. Thalidomide, of course, never was licensed for distribution in the United States.

Because the unexpected reaction (malformation of babies) was so disastrous, the mere term, side effects, has created immense fear.

Where the patient unduly frightens herself, I suspect, is in thinking that side effects which may occur will occur. If one applied the same thinking to everyday life, we would never cross the street because we might be hit by an automobile. And at times people are hit, but usually because of carelessness on somebody's part, the driver's, or the pedestrian's.

Side effects fall into much the same category. Virtually every medicine we know has some side effects if used without caution.

In the case of cortisone, as with many other drugs, a substantial dose may be given at first, after which the amount is reduced to a "maintenance dose," or just enough to maintain the good effects.

In this fashion the medication can be continued for a longer period. Used too long, cortisone can indeed be troublesome. One common consequence is retention of sodium and hence water in the body. Once the drug is stopped the trouble stops.

There can be such consequences as hair growth, skin blemishes, changes in blood pressure, mental disturbances, altered metabolism and so on. Just reading a list of what might happen becomes rather scary.

What we forget is that a great deal now is known about cortisone, and the physician giving it knows what to look for.

The danger of side effects arises mainly when the patient takes more than the amount prescribed, or when she doesn't see her doctor regularly and the doctor does not have a chance to detect early indications that the drug needs to be stopped.

True, cortisone cannot be taken indefinitely, but if you follow the two rules — taking only the amount prescribed, and seeing your doctor at regular intervals — you have little to fear.

It's like crossing the street. So long as you know that it might be dangerous, you take pains to be careful.

Dear Dr. Molner: Would you discuss "menopausal arthritis?" Will it leave later? — Mrs. S. L.

The term has been used, but there is some doubt as to whether it really is a separate type of arthritis. Hypertrophic or osteoarthritis often appears at about the same time in life as menopause, but it is likely that this is coincidence rather than cause and effect.

Dear Dr. Molner: My son is 13 months old and has a ruptured navel. The doctors tell me it will go away in about four years. I keep an adhesive bandage on it. What should I do? I don't want to harm him later. — Mrs. R. C., Jr.

These usually disappear by keeping them taped, as you are doing. There is no cause for concern under the circumstances.

Mononucleosis is primarily a disease of young people. To learn more about it, send for my booklet, "Mononucleosis," enclosing with your request a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 20 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

Balloonist Ends Coast-to-Coast, 3,000-Mile Trip

VILLAS, N.J. (AP) — "It was great, I felt like the pied piper," said Tracy Barnes, climbing out of the wicker basket under the balloon that carried him 3,000 miles—often at leaf-picking level.

He spent four months and more than 200 airborne hours crossing the continent from San Diego, Calif., the first such balloon trip ever, he said. Near Pittsburgh, Barnes, 27, said he reached 25,000 feet to set a hot-air balloon world altitude record.

The craft landed Sunday just north of this southern New Jersey community on the Delaware Bay.

Much of the trip was "just great," Barnes said. "Going through small towns. All the people were running along after me."

If he makes the journey he wants to, though, there'll be no crowd, for most of the trip. He wants to take a balloon to Europe.

Silver Shortage May See Big Jump in Price

BY SYLVIA PORTER
"Opportunities for Profit in The Coming Silver Crisis?"

"A rise in the price of silver is inevitable... how can the intelligent investor capitalize on this situation?"

These are excerpts from ads which have appeared in recent weeks in one of the nation's leading business journals. The ads underline, in bluntest terms, that speculation in silver may be headed for another strong upsurge. The speculation involves silver mining stocks, silver futures on the Commodity Exchange, silver coins.

In every case, speculators (and hoarders) are betting that the world's mounting silver shortages will soon force a big jump in the price of silver from today's Treasury-fixed selling price of $1.29 an ounce, and that those who have invested in this precious metal will then reap huge profits.

The evidence of a new surge in speculation is indisputable:

commemorative stamp honoring the late author and playwright Eugene O'Neill.

nearly 500,000,000 silver dollars and about the same number of 50-cent pieces have been snapped up by hoarders. Even a slight silver price rise would make it profitable to melt down silver dollars, now worth exactly $1 apiece in silver, for their silver content. A price rise above $1.38 would make it profitable also to melt other silver coins.

Speculators are now paying $1.35 an ounce for future deliveries of silver on the New York Commodity Exchange — lower than last year's high of $1.33 an ounce but considerably higher than the Treasury-maintained price of $1.29.

Treasury sales of silver have jumped from a normal average of $12 million a month to $17 million in July.

What are the prospects for a "silver crisis?"

Silver Stocks Shrink
Fact one is that U.S. Treasury silver stocks have shrunk just in the past year from 944 million ounces to 680 million ounces.

Fact two is that the U.S. last year produced only 37 million ounces of silver. In the same period, industrial consumption of silver alone amounted to 140 million ounces and another 320 million ounces were used by the U.S. mint to make coins.

Fact three is that total free world production of silver last year was only 225 million ounces. But total free world silver consumption (not counting U.S. coinage) was 388 million ounces, for a deficit of more than 160 million ounces.

And the world's silver needs are expected to continue to grow

Red Guards Seek To Change Name Of British Colony

HONG KONG (AP) — Red Guards, who have been changing the names of streets and stores in Communist China, want to change the name of Hong Kong to "Oppose Imperialism City" or "Expel the Imperialists City," travelers reported today.

The travelers said the Red Guards warned the past week that letters would be sent to Hong Kong only if they carried the new name. Hong Kong is a British colony.

faster than the world capacity to mine and produce the metal.

Fact four is that since elimination of the widespread coin shortages of recent years by big increases in production of new silverware, dimes and quarters, the Treasury has been under mounting pressure to get out of the business of selling silver, altogether. And if the Treasury did stop selling silver at the "bargain" rate of $1.29 an ounce, the price of silver in the open market certainly would rise above the artificial ceiling.

In the words of University of Michigan Associate Professor Ross J. Wilhelm: "There is no reason why the wealth of all the people in the country, including the poor, should be used to keep the price of sterling silverware low."

But even though a rise in the price of silver is in the offing, and some speculators will benefit, speculation in silver cannot pay off until two towering questions are answered: When and how much will the price of silver rise?

Tomorrow: Will Silver Speculation Pay Off? (All Rights Reserved)

Self-Help Key To Social Ails, Byrnes Claims

Flood of Federal Funds Produced Dismal Results

Candidates who spread the idea that only the outpouring of vast sums by the federal government can solve our social and economic problems, endanger America's future, Eighth District Rep. John W. Byrnes, R-Green Bay, said in Appleton Sunday morning.

"Even now, the demagogues are telling us we can't take care of ourselves and that the federal government will do it for us," Byrnes told a breakfast meeting of the Holy Name Society of St. Pius X parish. "These candidates go after votes by promising they can get us more of everything from Uncle Sam."

"If a substantial number of Americans come to believe this hogwash, then I shudder to think of the fate of this once-proud nation," Byrnes said. "We will develop a society of spineless citizens without the energy or backbone to pour themselves a glass of water. And, we won't solve our problems, either."

"Government at its costliest can only nibble at the edges of human and social problems. The only real way these problems can be solved is by self-help and people themselves working with the initiative and energy which comes from drive and incentive. Once the idea prevails that someone else is going to do the job — that government is going to take care of us — we kill all incentive and make solutions impossible. We cannot make progress unless people want to help themselves, unless there is instilled in the public a law-abiding instinct, a respect for oneself and for others."

Dismal Results

"We've poured $3 billion into an anti-poverty program and the results are worse than dismal. Too many of the poverty-stricken, lulled by the promise of the whining politician that he will take care of them, have been sitting around waiting for it to happen. Tragically, when they find that the promises are false and cannot be filled, many have taken to the streets in mobs, setting the anti-poverty effort back by years."

The congressman said that government, including the federal government, had a role in overcoming poverty.

"But, the job will be a long one. It will not succeed until we start attacking basic causes of poverty, until we recognize that the most effective work will be done by locally-inspired, locally-directed programs. But the job can never be done unless it is made clear to the poverty-stricken they themselves are the only ones, in the end, who can possibly lift themselves out of poverty. We must give them hope, aspiration and opportunity — but we must also be honest with them."

Man Fined $60 On Traffic Charge

William A. Charles, 21, 603 N. Webster St., Green Bay, was fined a total of $60 and costs or 26 days in jail Monday after he was found guilty of speeding 90 miles an hour in a 65 zone and having faulty brakes on his car.

Charles, who was arrested April 15 by state police on U.S. 41 in the Town of Vandenberg, pleaded innocent May 17.

Trial was held without a jury Monday afternoon in Outagamie County Court Branch 2. Charles was found guilty by Judge Gustave J. Keller.

Wisconsin Serviceman One of Four Receiving Awards in Korea

SEOUL, (AP) — Four U. S. servicemen including one from Wisconsin, received second annual best neighbor awards from the Seoul Junior Chamber of Commerce tonight.

They were cited for their good deeds to promote welfare of Korean neighbors mostly during their off duty hours.

The award recipients included M. Sgt. Val A. Turgeon of Kenosha, Wis., serving with Headquarters Co., 7th Infantry Division's 13th engineer battalion.

Pupils Go to School, Ride Home in Tiger

BRICK TOWNSHIP, N.J. (AP) — A typical Brick Township school child finishes his last class in the afternoon, then grabs a tiger home from school. The child really takes a bus, but in order for him to identify the correct bus to take, pictures of animals have been placed in the windows of the vehicles.

"We don't want any mistakes if we can't help it," school superintendent Henry E. Dux said after the opening of school Monday. "We tell the children what number their bus is but we also tell them to ride home in the rabbit bus. It works."

Less Federal Control Vital To Efficient State Operation

Knowles Doesn't Want Emphasis Placed on 'Manna From Heaven'

Getting out from "under the wraps of the federal government" is necessary if Wisconsin's government machine is to operate effectively, Gov. Warren Knowles said Monday night on the eve of the state's primary election.

The governor, speaking at the Outagamie County Federation of Republican Women at Sabre Lanes in the Town of Menasha, said entirely too much emphasis is placed on getting "manna from heaven" and "bypassing the state government machinery."

Knowles, who has been criticized by political opponents for failure to acquire enough federal funds for certain state projects, admitted "We want help on these problems that need federal intervention," but problems would arise if the state were too dependent.

"Our political opponents are inclined to treat all problems on a grand, mass basis," the Republican chief executive said, "instead of treating them on an individual basis." He conceded that projects involving highway construction and interstate waterways might have federal funds made available for them, but the state must do its best to solve for itself problems of a state nature, such as water pollution and conservation.

Knowles, not against taking a swipe at a possible opponent in the November election, Lt. Gov. Patrick Lucey, criticized his "assistant chairman of the board" for doing a "great disservice" to the state. Lucey and other opponents, he said, have created the notion in neighboring states that "our lakes are polluted, our rivers are cesspools. This is not so."

"I'm no miracle man with a magic wand to wave over lakes and streams. It's going to take a lot of work and a lot of money," the governor said, "to solve problems which all of a sudden have become Republican problems."

"We have built on a sound foundation," he said, "and we have just begun." He said he was seeking re-election so his administration could complete programs it has started in the field of water pollution control, education, conservation, highway safety and others.

"I want a legislature with whom I can work without issues becoming partisan politics," he said. Of Lucey, he said, "I haven't seen him (since the last election); he's been out campaigning."

Knowles had special praise for the work done by a task force headed by William Kellett of Menasha in making recommendations for economy and efficiency in state government.

Thirty-three million dollars would be saved if the Kellett group's recommendations were followed, Knowles said. Already $15 million has been saved by adopting some of the recommendations, he added.

Most of the changes sought by the Kellett Commission have been administrative, Knowles said, with ones in the future more likely to be legislative. "It will then be time," he added, "for people to get out of the bleachers and onto the playing field — or quit talking."

Village Man Reports Hit and Run Damage

KIMBERLY — Averd R. Verhagen, 260 S. Lincoln St., Kimberly, complained to police about $75 damage was done to the left side of his car by a hit and run driver sometime after 12:30 a.m. Monday when the Verhagen vehicle was parked in the 400 block of E. Kimberly Avenue.

Confusion Over Bids

NEW LONDON — The Northport School, which was believed to have been purchased by the town of Mukwa, apparently will remain New London School District property — at least for a short time.

This confusing conclusion resulted from a meeting of the town board with the board of education Monday.

An apparent bid by the town of $3,000 was accepted by the board of education last month, but Monday, some members of the town board questioned whether the bid was submitted with approval.

Thought Declined They agreed that on offer of $3,000 had been made by the town, but believed it had been turned down by the board of education.

The board of education, then asked for bids a second time on the property and building, but got no response. The school board was informed that the original bid still was good and then accepted the town offer.

Robert Cupp, supervisor, said the town board had decided at a meeting it would not resubmit the bid.

New Town Hall Cupp wondered for what price the town could get the school. He said they planned to use it for a town hall and possibly a meeting hall for various clubs.

Gordon Reidenbach, board of education president, said the school board was representing the entire school district. "If we are to go back and accept a lower bid we would be subject to questioning by the electors and rightfully so," he said.

The town board asked to be excused to discuss the matter. Upon returning they made a verbal offer which will have to be confirmed in writing.

Cupp said the town board was unaware the bid was submitted and they would send a letter rescinding the offer. He added that the town would submit a bid for $3,000 with board approval.

A bid of $25 for an adjoining 75-by-150-foot lot by Kenneth Swinton was accepted by the school board.

Brillion Board Of Education President Quits

John Haun Claims Resignation Due to 'Personal' Reasons

BRILLION — A letter of resignation from John Haun, president of the Brillion School District board of education, was read at Monday night's board meeting.

The letter, dated Aug. 9, confirmed the decision Haun has been contemplating for some time for "personal" reasons.

Haun, who is chief engineer of the farm implement division of the Brillion Iron Works, is in Oregon on business and could not be reached for comment.

The 12-year school board veteran will be replaced as president by Roy Fischer.

Ralph Anderson will replace Fischer as treasurer. Walter Keller is clerk and Harland Krahn is a director. A second director will be appointed.

Post-Crescent Promotion Ad Wins Award

The Post-Crescent was awarded first prize in the newspaper promotion classification at the recent conference of the Wisconsin Newspaper Advertising Executives Association held at Wisconsin Rapids last week.

The award was presented for an ad published July 12 which displayed a group of the various types of shoes used in different sports events with identification left to the readers. Identity of the shoes was made more difficult by representing only the soles of the shoes. Readers could check a box in the ad for proper identification. Ad copy suggested that the best way to be knowledgeable about sports is to consistently read the sport pages of the daily and Sunday Post-Crescent.

The ad was prepared by the promotion department of the Post-Crescent.

New London in Favor of Valley Vocational Site

But Board of Education Wants Questions Answered Before Committing School District

NEW LONDON — The board of education Monday indicated it favors the Fox Valley area vocational and technical school site, but wants a number of questions answered before making an official commitment.

Members felt there should be discussion on a program proposal, amount of the district tax and size, location and cost of a school.

School district boundaries, rather than county boundary lines should be used in determining areas in the district, the board felt.

Districts are to be members of a vocational and technical area by 1970.

Hot Lunch Program The board, in other business, set prices for lunches, and salaries to be paid food service employees for the hot lunch program.

Pupils in grades one through six will pay 30 cents per meal on a weekly basis. Junior and senior high school students will be charged 35 cents on a similar basis, while adults will pay 45 cents. Individual meal tickets will be sold for 35 cents to the elementary pupils and 40 cents to junior and senior high school students.

A pay schedule varying from $1.25 to $1.90 per hour for employees hired to conduct the lunch program was approved.

An additional bus route to pick up students living in areas surrounding the city was approved. Costs involved are the hiring of an additional driver and operation of the bus.

Most of the students to be

'Schut' King Crowned at Hollandtown

HOLLANDTOWN — Carl Bowers, route 1, Kaukauna, was crowned king of the 117th annual Hollandtown Schut Sunday afternoon.

Eighty-six marksmen participated in the event, sponsored by the St. Francis Society of St. Francis Church. Bowers downed the bird on the 787th shot. He unseated John Wurdinger, last year's champion and for his efforts received an $80 cash award and reigned over the dinner-dance which followed at Van Abel's.

Other shooters claiming parts of the bird and receiving lesser awards, were David Jacobs, head; Gerald Rose-nov, tall; and James Gerrits and Dennis Runge, wings.

Board Refers Utility Study to Committee

Proposed Comprehensive Area Sewer, Water Plan for County Communities Delayed 30 Days

A proposed comprehensive area plan for water and sewer systems for Outagamie County communities Monday was referred by county board supervisors to a coordinating committee for study and will probably be returned to the board for a vote at the October meeting.

A motion by Eugene Kloes, Appleton supervisor, passed by a narrow 22-20 margin referring the proposal to the six-member coordinating committee of the Fox Valley and Wolf River Basin Regional Planning Com-missions. The comprehensive plan was introduced to county board members during the Monday morning session by William E. Morris, executive director of the Wolf River planning group.

Morris and Gordon A. Bubolz, chairman of the Wolf River commission, urged immediate approval of the plan. Eugene Franchett, executive director of the Fox Valley Regional Planning Commission, opposed immediate board action and sought referral of the matter to the coordinating committee.

Appleton Man Pays Reckless Driving Fine

KAUKAUNA — Vernon Jorstad, 44, 803 N. Richmond St., Appleton, pleaded guilty of reckless driving and was fined $150 when arraigned before Clarence O'Connor, municipal justice, Monday.

Jorstad was arrested by police over the weekend when they noticed him driving his car in a manner which was endangering other traffic on the street.

PSC Approves Power Facility at Beloit

MADISON (AP)—The Wisconsin Power and Light Co. received permission Monday from the Public Service Commission to build a 30,000 kilowatt generating plant at its Rock River facilities at Beloit at a cost of $3 million. The PSC ordered construction to start within one year.

The plan would take 30 months to complete before application with the FHA could be made. The Wolf River commission asked Outagamie County to authorize spending $16,092 for the county's share of the overall cost. The costs would be apportioned over a three year period, $6,437 due the first year.

In moving referral of the plan to the coordinating committee, Kloes said he did not think one month's delay would affect the measure since it will not be completed for 30 months anyway.

Share Expenses Each of the eight counties involved have been listed to share expenses for the project. The highest share for any county is $17,249 for Winnebago. Outagamie County is second with $16,092 and Waupaca County ranks third highest at $4,218. Other counties listed were For-

Three Fined $850 Total For Illegal Deer Kill

Trio Arrested Saturday With Dead Fawn In Car, Another Found in Altona Basement

WAUPACA — Shooting two young deer cost three men a total of $850 or 120-day jail terms for each Monday when they appeared in Municipal Justice Court and pleaded guilty of Conservation Code violations.

LeRoy F. Steninhoff, 29, Racine, and Clifford W. Heider, 49, Kenosha, both pleaded guilty to two counts of hunting and killing deer during a closed season, possession of venison during a closed season and carrying a loaded uncased gun in a car. On each of the first three charges they were fined $100 and costs and for carrying the uncased loaded gun in a car, $50 and costs. Each charge carries a 30-day jail sentence if the fine is not paid.

Clifford Heider, 40, route 1, Almond, pleaded guilty to possession of a dead deer for which he was fined $100 and carrying a loaded gun in a car for which he was fined $50 and costs.

Returned to Jail The three men were returned to the county jail where they are making arrangements to raise the fine money.

The trio was arrested Saturday night by conservation wardens after they received a complaint that someone was shooting deer in the Town of Dayton, west of Waupaca. When the wardens stopped the men, near the Hartman Creek State Park, they found a dead fawn in the back seat of the car and through further investigation found a second fawn in the basement of a building near Almond, owned by Clifford Heider.

Rex Oatman, conservation department, said the deer found in the car weighed approximately 50 pounds and the one in the basement was slightly larger.

In addition to fining the three men, Justice George Whalen ordered that the rifle used to kill the deer be confiscated and their hunting privileges be re-voked for one year.

The county has had a part-time home economics agent working with 4-H members and homemakers groups in Outagamie County during the summer months. The agent was reportedly paid $400 for her summer work.

The new agent will work primarily with girls in home economics projects in the county.

CAC Begins Fall Teen Program

Margaret Planner and Ellen Balliet sold tickets and stamped the hands of teens who attended Friday evening's opening CAC winter program. Holding her hand for marking is Ellen Balliet. At right, Lynn Erickson spent at least part of the evening in the refreshment stand. She gives Chuck Lang his change after serving him and Cathy Lund.

High School young people from the area began their Catholic Activities Council winter program at a dance Friday evening. The record hop was held from 8 to 11 p.m. at St. Mary Catholic School. The program will provide teens with social, recreational and sport activities. Friday and Saturday sessions will be from 8 to 11 p.m. and Tuesday from 7 to 10 p.m.

The Friday evening dance brought back old friends who had not been seen through the summer, and gave newcomers the chance to get acquainted. CAC is a Red Feather Agency and is open to all area residents.

Music and Dancing, Along with cooler weather and the start of school put teens in the mood for an evening of fun. Dancers requested favorite records from Bob Piel during the Friday party. Below, Barb Bayer and Don Davis sit one out while others watch the dancers from the sidelines.

Double Ring Ceremony Performed

CHILTON — Miss Shirley Karls, Milwaukee, and Robert J. Jost exchanged nuptial vows at 1 p.m. Saturday at Holy Trinity Catholic Church, Jericho. The Rev. Walter F. Luschel officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Karls, route 2, Chilton. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Jost, Milwaukee.

Mrs. Donald Karls, sister-in-law of the bride, attended as matron of honor. Mrs. Thomas Jost, Mrs. Frank Fuhrman and Miss Victoria Zanolini were bridesmaids. Miss Sheri Moehn was miniature bride.

Thomas Jost, a brother of the bridegroom, performed the duties of best man. Groomsmen were Donald Karls, Kenneth Karls and Robert Schoen.

Guests were seated by Arthur Moehn and John Jost.

The couple was honored at a reception at Zeigebauer Hall, Jericho.

The bride, who attended Wisconsin State University-Oshkosh and was graduated from St. Joseph Hospital School of X-ray Technology, Milwaukee, is an X-ray Technologist at the hospital. Her husband, graduated from the University of Wisconsin, Madison, is employed by the Motor Transport Co., Milwaukee.

After a wedding trip to northern Wisconsin and Michigan, the couple will reside at 2328A N. 64th St., Milwaukee.

Stamps Mark Anniversary of Women's Clubs

The 75th anniversary of the General Federation of Women's Clubs was marked in a commemorative stamp issued Monday by Postmaster General Lawrence F. O'Brien. The stamp was designed by New York artist Charles Henry Carter and shows women in fashions of yesterday and today. At the left of a blue oval are the words, "75 Years of Service for Freedom and Growth."

Paper Firms Dumping Less Wastes in Rivers

Kimberly-Clark Executive Tells Council Of Expenditures for Pollution Abatement

A paper industry water expert, well as that of industrial effluent. Billings pointed out that major anti-pollution steps have been taken recently, or are currently in process, on all state rivers on which there are significant paper industry operations.

He cited specific developments on the Fox, Wisconsin, Oconto, Menominee and Flambeau rivers. In addition, he said, "literally dozens" of previous installations throughout the state continue to help alleviate pollution problems.

Paper companies' total impact on Wisconsin rivers will be further lightened as owners switch to different pulping methods, or eliminate pulp mills altogether, as is the prospect for at least two in Wisconsin, Billings added.

Billings said "The problem may not be corrected entirely tomorrow, but you will be able to witness unprecedented progress tomorrow. Real progress can be seen today, for that matter, by anyone who will stop listening to the prophets of doom and start looking at the remarkable thrust of our water technology."

Rhinelanders Tour WRC facilities at the Rhineland Division Plant of the St. Regis Paper Co. There, industry research led, in 1950, to an installation which converts spent sulfite liquor, a high oxygen-demanding effluent previously discharged into the Wisconsin River, to Torula yeast, a food protein for human and animal consumption.

The company's technical director, Dr. R. C. Crain, said, "Rhinelanders now uses for yeast production all of the spent liquor it can collect. The effect has been the removal from the river of a large portion of the waste and biochemical oxygen demand."

Dr. Crain said the cost of this facility has amounted to more than $3 million and that other stream improvement research and installations at Rhineland have cost another $1 million. Furthermore, "engineering studies have been in progress for more than a year to develop plans for further reduction of waste discharge," he said.

No Contamination Billings differentiated between effluents which contaminate water and those which pollute it. "The paper industry does not contaminate," he said. Paper mill effluents — wood and water, clay and starch, lime and soda, sulphur and bleach liquor — "create no health hazards," the Kimberly-Clark technologist declared. He added, "Neither are there any disease germs in our effluents, for disease germs come from human and animal sewage — not from an industrial process."

He said while some paper industry pollutants may render water undesirable or unsuitable for fishing or swimming or drinking, they do not render it hazardous.

Aerial Survey

Appleton Mayor Views Potential Annexation Areas; Seeks Talks

BY WILLIAM C. CAREY

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Mayor George Buckley — Appleton's flying chief executive — looks at municipal problems from both land and air.

On a clear, sunny day this past week the former U.S. Navy pilot decided to "go upstairs" for an overall view of Appleton and environs. However, it wasn't a pleasure flight.

His motive was to get an aerial view of areas which have annexation potential, and one sweep over Grand Chute put that town at the top of the list.

Accompanying him were: Walter Rasmussen, city planner; Max Sagunsky, manager of the Outagamie County Airport; and a Post-Crescent reporter.

Annexation Survey

The mayor's flight was timely because the same night the common council had before it a recommendation to authorize the conducting of an annexation survey by a St. Louis consulting firm.

"I know there are a lot of people living in the town that feel any kind of annexation is all wrong for them," Buckley said, "but this is not true in the long run."

Trouble Spots

As the group winged its way north and flew in low over Grand Chute and the outskirts

No Injuries Reported in Mishap Near Brillion

CHILTON — No injuries were reported when a car driven by Eugene R. Enneper, Sheboygan, collided with a vehicle driven by Jacob Lindner, 81, route 1, Brillion at 7 p.m., Sunday, one mile west of Brillion on U.S. 10.

According to Calumet County police Lindner was crossing U.S. 10 on a town road, failed to stop for a stop sign before entering the highway and his car was struck in the rear by the Enneper vehicle traveling east on U.S. 10.

of Appleton, there was definite growth pattern.

Grand Chute had its West College Avenue commercial "strip," along with smaller business and commercial developments which appeared to be a crazy quilt-like pattern — interspersed by clusters of homes separated by wide open fields.

Buckley and Rasmussen agreed a few areas were about ripe to become "trouble spots," one of them in the town near the new Einstein Junior High School.

Rasmussen winced when he saw a few residential developments next door to small industrial establishments. It wasn't his idea of adequate zoning or planning, but he thought the town was doing "a fairly good job" with zoning.

He questioned, however, whether the growing town, which is starting to hem Appleton in, would be able to cope with the demands forced upon it by rapid urban growth.

"I think if Appleton and Grand Chute could get together on a consolidation or annexation, it would be good for both communities," Buckley commented.

Need to Talk

"There really is no reason for anyone to get scared whenever the word annexation is mentioned," Buckley said, "I think there is a need for city and town officials to sit down and talk a few things over."

"An educational program as to what benefits annexation would be to town and city residents, also listing the minutes, should be undertaken," Buckley added.

Buckley and Rasmussen indicated it would be sometime before the city would attempt to force annexations, noting several areas have recently come into the city voluntarily.

Passes were made over parts of Appleton, Grand Chute and the Town of Menasha and the aerial view really opened things up to the human eye as compared to studying maps.

Park Area

Officials viewed the 98 acres of property the city purchased from a town resident a year ago for park and other purposes and said it represented a good investment and site. Besides, it was a major Appleton expansion to the northeast.

His first parish was in Pearl City, Ill., where he served three years starting in 1933. From 1936 to 1945 the Rev. Mr. Seidler was at Melbourne, Iowa, and from 1945 to 1952 at New Holstein.

In 1952 he became assistant to the president at Mission House Academy, now known as Lake-

Burglars Hit Three Firms

Money, Fuel Taken in Stephenville, Dale, Hortonville Break-ins

Outagamie County authorities are investigating overnight burglaries and thefts at three business places in the county.

About $35 in change was taken from Breitrick's Garage and Implement Co., Hortonville, after the building was entered by breaking glass in a back door.

Authorities said the money was taken from a cash box. A safe also was entered but it contained no money, police said.

A vending machine and a gasoline storage tank were looted at the Dale Gas and Oil Co., according to a report received about 7:45 a.m. today.

The third burglary was at the American Tool and Foundry, Stephenville, where a total of about $80 was missing from a vending machine and a desk that was pried open. The desk also was ransacked, according to county investigators.

Police Catch 2 Foster Home Runaways

Boys Apprehended After Chase Along Railroad Tracks

Two 16-year-old boys missing from a West DePere foster home since Friday night, were apprehended following a foot chase by Appleton police early today.

A third youth, also 16, was apprehended earlier by Brown County authorities.

This morning's chase began about 12:15 a.m. when a patrolman observed two youths running in an alley just south of W. College Avenue, in the downtown area. The patrolman pursued the boys who ran along railroad tracks from State to Superior Streets. The patrolman lost track of them at that point.

Another beat patrolman checking doors in the area heard his companion's call for assistance and shortly after spotted the two boys running along the same railroad tracks.

Took up Chase

He then took up the chase, lost the pair for a short time, then picked up the trail again near Oneida and Harris Streets. He found the boys crouched beneath a house porch just west of the Medical Arts Clinic. The chase ended about 12:35 a.m. The boys were placed in juvenile detention awaiting the arrival of Brown County authorities.

The youths told police they arrived in Appleton about 10 a.m. Saturday. They said they stole several bicycles in Appleton.

They began riding toward Oshkosh, on U.S. 41, early Sunday, but abandoned the cycles after they were spotted by an Outagamie County policeman. The boys ran into a field and eluded police who began a search.

The boys said they then returned to Appleton and spent the remainder of the night in a truck. They slept near railroad tracks on the city's west side Sunday night.

The boys admitted breaking into at least two homes and a truck terminal. They said they took food from one of the homes Sunday night.

land College. During this time he organized the Faith Church near Sheboygan.

In 1955 he accepted the call to St. John Church in Appleton.

During the minister's years here he has served as president of the Appleton Ministerial Association and the Fox Valley Ministerial Fellowship.

Texan Tells Tall Tale After Taking Car for Dip in Lake

MENASHA — A Texan whose car wouldn't fly and wouldn't float, either, had a dry bed in Theda Clark Memorial Hospital today while his car and a policeman's uniform were being dried out.

Juan Lazano, 24, Brownsville, Tex., was listed in satisfactory condition with a chin laceration received when his car leaped off the west end of Third Street and landed 100 feet offshore in Little Lake Butte des Morts about 11:38 p.m. Sunday.

A neighbor woman reported cries for help coming from the lake, bringing four officers to the scene. They found Lazano standing on top of his 1957 model car which was submerged in the water.

The officers borrowed a rowboat from a nearby boat livery and rowed to the car. Lazano said he had four companions in the car. Patrolman James La Count jumped into the water to search for the other victims.

Lazano, officers said, then admitted he had been alone. He was taken to the hospital in a squad car and a wrecker was called to tow the car from the lake. The front of the car received an estimated $300 in damages.

Students Study Events

Post-Crescent Serves As Living Textbook

Many schools in this area are using the newspaper as a living textbook to teach local, national, and world events and trends.

Students study the newspaper at home each day as part of an educational program sponsored in the schools by the Post-Crescent.

To stimulate newspaper reading, the classroom teacher uses a weekly filmstrip and its accompanying discussion guides. The photos in the filmstrip are of significant news events. They are used as the focal point to begin a discussion of "Who? What? When? Where?" and the all-important "Why?"

Thought-provoking questions supplied in the guides stimulate lively class discussion. In order to participate, students soon acquire the regular habit of careful, daily newspaper reading.

The Post-Crescent's School Program is used effectively in a wide range of classroom courses: current events, civics, history, science, art, geography, English, etc.

For example, a single week's lesson may discuss the United States and Viet Nam, space exploration, modern art trends, and the Pulitzer Prize for literature.

Participating schools receive 35 weekly News Filmstrip lessons during the academic year. To help the teacher, printed guides include background information about the events, related activities, vocabulary and map assignments, family discussion questions, and a brief written test.

The teacher also is provided with suggested homework assignments which involve such student activities as analyzing newspaper articles and editorials, drawing editorial cartoons, and writing "letters to the editor" to express their opinions. These homework assignments give students an opportunity to develop a wide range of learning skills.

In addition to the weekly News Filmstrips, the school receives monthly "News-in-Depth" filmstrips on specific subjects of current interest. This school year, the Depth filmstrips include such subjects as Latin America, Viet Nam, and Moon Exploration.

A third unit of the Program is the weekly News Quiz, printed in The Post-Crescent each week. This Quiz helps adults as well as students to review the news and to discover how thoroughly they are keeping abreast of current developments.

VEC News Services are produced by Visual Education Consultants, Inc., of Madison, Wisconsin and are used in schools throughout the nation.
